Acknowledgements
Acronyms and Key Thai and Japanese Terms
Figures and Tables
Introduction: From Personal Troubles to Public Issues
Migration, sexwork and trafficking: 25 years from Thailand to Japan
Personal involvement
Learning troubles to know: troubles of representation and troubles of reflexivity
The fieldwork, the respondents and the researcher's relationships to them
EMPOWER in Bangkok and the streets of Bangkok
SEPOM in Chiangrai
Strangers in Tokyo
Structure and outline of chapters
Conclusion
Modernisation, Gender and Globalisation: Situating the Migrations of Thai Sexworkers
Centralising lived experiences: finding middle ground in the feminist divide on 'prostitution'
Deciding factors of 'sexwork' and 'sexual slavery'
The problem of the notion of 'Social Death'
Diverse experiences of sexwork
Four substantive issues
The impact of industrialisation under national social engineering on individual lives
Gendered senses of social expectancy, obligations and responsibility congruent with the meanings of women's sexuality
Globalisation of culture and economy
Globalisation of migration
Conclusion
Before Becoming Sexworkers
Absolute poverty in industrialisation: Kaeo
The season of political economy: the development planners and their target
Relative deprivation as social exclusion and drive to migration: Daaw
Sexual violence in communal force: Mai and Yoon
Betrayal in relationships and opportunity in the rise of tourism: Banyaa
Material girls and spiritual boys - gender disparity in familial responsibility: Nok
Conclusion
Becoming Sexworkers, Being Sexworkers trap, betrayal and embitterment: Mai and Kaeo becoming sexworkers
Mother, money, daughter and duty: Kaeo and Mai
The house and the material girl: Yoon