The Project Manager p. 61
The Video/Audio Director/Developer p. 61
The Photographer/Videographer p. 61
The Voice Talent and Actors p. 61
The Programmer/Coder p. 62
The Product Manager p. 62
Conclusion p. 62
References p. 62
Script and Proposal Formatting p. 63
Chapter Overview p. 63
Scripting Software p. 63
Preliminary Documents: Outlines, Proposals, and Design Documents p. 64
Storyboards, Scripts, and Final Documents p. 69
Conclusion p. 80
References p. 80
Key Points from Part I: Interactive Media and the Writer p. 85
Multimedia Defined (Chapter 1) p. 85
Thinking Interactively (Chapter 1) p. 85
Linking (Chapter 1) p. 85
High-Level Design and Information Architecture (Chapter 1) p. 86
Interactive Devices (Chapter 1) p. 86
Writing for Many Media (Chapter 2) p. 86
High-Level Design and Management Skills (Chapter 3) p. 86
Flowcharting and Other Organizational Tools (Chapter 3) p. 87
Writing as Part of the Production Team (Chapter 4) p. 87
Script Formatting (Chapter 5) p. 87
Writing Informational Multimedia and Web Sites p. 91
Chapter Overview p. 91
Informational Multimedia and Web Sites Defined p. 91
Defining the Goal: Business Context, Data, and Users p. 92
Example of Defining the Goal p. 97
Techniques to Achieve Common Informational Goals p. 98
Multimedia Games as Teaching Tools p. 106
Conclusion p. 107
References p. 107
Informational Multimedia and Web Architecture p. 109
Chapter Overview p. 109
Linear Structure p. 109
Linear Structure with Scene or Section Branching p. 110
Hierarchical Branching p. 111
How to Get Copies of the Games

Case Study-Adapting Classic Books to a Computer Game for the Female Audience: Nancy Drew: The Secret of the Old Clock

Program Description and Background

Goals and Challenges of Writing Nancy Drew: The Secret of the Old Clock

Meeting the Challenge of Adapting a 1930s Book to a 21st Century Computer Game: The Process of Writing The Secret of the Old Clock

Adapting a 1930s Novel to a Computer Game Conclusion

Meeting the Challenge of Developing a Computer Game for a Broad Female Audience

Meeting the Challenge of Completing All of the Tasks Described Above and Still Staying on Budget and Schedule

Conclusion: Response to the Project

References

Case Study-Adding Story to a Simulation: Amped 3

Program Description and Background

Goals and Challenges Writing Amped 3

Writing Amped 3: Meeting the Challenges

Conclusion: Response to the Project

References

Case Study-Parallel Stories Narrative: The Pandora Directive

Program Description and Background

Goals and Challenges Writing The Pandora Directive

Writing The Pandora Directive: Meeting the Challenges

Conclusion: Response to the Project

References

Case Study-Worlds Narrative: Dust: A Tale of the Wired West

Program Description and Background

Goals and Challenges Writing Dust: A Tale of the Wired West

Writing Dust: A Tale of the Wired West: Meeting the Challenges

Conclusion: Response to the Program

References

Case Study-Immersive Exhibit: The New England Economic Adventure

Program Description and Background

Goals and Challenges Writing The New England Economic Adventure

Writing The New England Economic Adventure: Meeting the Challenges

Conclusion: Response to the Project

References

Key Points from Part III: How to Write Interactive Narrative

A Story with Interactive Potential

Strong Linear Narrative (Chapter 17)

Classical Structure (Chapter 17)

Characters