Explanations of English underdevelopment p. 103
The development of French technical education p. 107
The development of technical education in England p. 109
To 'blaze the trail for women to follow along': sex, gender and the politics of education on the London School Board (1870-1904) p. 118
Introduction p. 118
Political candidature p. 119
The political culture of the London School Board p. 122
Women's careers as educational policy-makers p. 126
The schoolgirls' curriculum p. 126
Women teachers p. 129
School attendance p. 130
Conclusion p. 132
Education and social change and inequality p. 137
Can education change society? p. 139
Schooling as an impediment to social mobility in nineteenth and twentieth century Britain p. 151
Curriculum p. 161
Eton in India: the imperial diffusion of a Victorian educational ethic p. 163
Catholic influence and the secondary school curriculum in Ireland, 1922-1962 p. 179
General background p. 179
The Church's pursuit of its interests through the secondary school curriculum p. 181
An historical explanation for the Church's great influence over the secondary school curriculum p. 182
Changes since 1962 p. 186
Teachers and pupils p. 193
The symbiotic embrace: American Indians, white educators and the school, 1820s-1920s p. 195
Classroom teachers and educational change 1876-1996 p. 214
Three generations of teachers p. 214
Classrooms and pedagogies p. 216
Practical autonomy p. 218
Post-war change p. 220
The second-generation legacy p. 223
New expectations p. 224
Interviewees p. 227
Education, work and the economy p. 231
Entering the world of work: the transition from youth to adulthood in modern European society p. 233
Politicians and economic panic p. 246
Introduction p. 246
The current panic: players and panaceas p. 246
Education and the CBI p. 251