The study of intelligence

Sources and methods for the study of intelligence

The American approach to intelligence studies

The historiography of the FBI

Intelligence ethics: laying a foundation for the second oldest profession

The evolution of modern intelligence

The accountability of security and intelligence agencies

"Knowing the self, knowing the other": the comparative analysis of security intelligence

US patronage of German postwar intelligence

The intelligence cycle and the search for information: planning, collecting, and processing

The technical collection of intelligence

Human source intelligence

Open source intelligence

Adapting intelligence to changing issues

The challenges of economic intelligence

The intelligence cycle and the crafting of intelligence reports: analysis and dissemination

Strategic warning: intelligence support in a world of uncertainty and surprise

Achieving all-source fusion in the Intelligence Community

Adding value to the intelligence product

Analysis for strategic intelligence

Counterintelligence and covert action

Cold War intelligence defectors

Counterintelligence failures in the United States

Emigre intelligence reporting: sifting fact from fiction

Linus Pauling: a case study in counterintelligence run amok

The role of covert action

The future of covert action

Intelligence accountability

Intelligence oversight in the UK: the case of Iraq

Intelligence accountability: challenges for parliaments and intelligence services

Intelligence and the rise of judicial intervention

A shock theory of congressional accountability for intelligence

Appendices

The US Intelligence Community (IC), 2006

Leadership of the US Intelligence Community (IC), 1947-2006
The intelligence cycle
Select Bibliography
Index

Table of Contents provided by Blackwell's Book Services and R.R. Bowker. Used with permission.