Introduction
Linguistic progression and regression: an introduction
The Sociological Setting
The role of pidgin and creole languages in languages progression and regression
Structure and practice in language shift
Growing up monolingual in a multilingual community: how language socialisation patterns are leading to language shift in Gapun (Papua New Guinea)
Language change in a creole continuum: decreolisation?
Psycho- and Neurolinguistic Aspects
Neurolinguistic aspects of first language acquisition and loss
Neurolinguistic aspects of second language development and attrition
Second language acquisition as a function of age: research findings and methodological issues
Second language regression Alzheimer's dementia
The Linguistic Perspective
Crosslinguistic perspectives on native language acquisition
Syntactic development in Danish L2
The weaker language in bilingual Swedish-French children
Four operating principles and input distribution as explanations for underdeveloped and mature morphological systems
Crosslinguistic perspectives on lexical organisation and lexical progression
Attrition or expansion? changes in the lexicon of Finnish and American adult bilinguals in Sweden
The Linguistic Perspective 2: Phonology
The development of phonological abilities
The course of development in second language phonology acquisition: a natural path or strategic choice?
Sociolinguistic factors in loss and acquisition of phonology
Index
Table of Contents provided by Blackwell's Book Services and R.R. Bowker. Used with permission.