Introduction; Prelude: the varieties of early modern historiography

Constructing The Enlightened Narrative

Pietro Giannone: Jurist and Libertin in the Central Mediterranean

Civil and ecclesiastical history

Popes and emperors: from the Isaurians to the Hohenstaufen

Angevins, Spaniards and Gallicans: to the brink of enlightenment

Gibbon and Giannone: narrative, philosophy, erudition

Voltaire: Neo-Classicst and Philosophe in the Enlightened World-Picture

On the horizons of Europe: the kings of the north

Courtly monarchy as the instrument of Enlightenment: the Siecle de Louis XIV

Asia and the dechristianisation of history: the Siecle and the Essai sur les Moeurs

The Christian millennium in Europe: the Essai sur les Moeurs

The recovery of civil government, the rebirth of fanaticism, and the return to the

Siecle

Voltaire: the exasperating predecessor

The Historical Age and the Historical Nation

David Hume and the Philosophical History of England

The problems of history in the Hanoverian kingdoms

David Hume: the Essays as contemporary history

The History of Great Britain: Hume's modern history

England under the House of the Tudor: monarchy, Europe and enthusiasm

Hume's History of England: the Enlightened narrative in retrospect

William Robertson and the History of Europe

The problems of history: the Scottish perspective

Scotland and the progress of society

The Reign of Charles V and the emergence of the European States

Robertson: histories written and unwritten

The Progress of Civil Society

Adam Smith: Jurisprudence into History

Moral philosophy and the stages of society

Smith's Glasgow lectures: narrative and philosophical history

Adam Ferguson: the Moderate as Machiavellian

Ferguson's Essay: Siberia as the cradle of World history

The Memoires Littéraires and the Remains of Japhet

Scottish narrative: theoretical and civil history

Intending the Decline and Fall

The Enlightened narrative and the project of 1776

‘Gibbon's dark ages:’ the writings of 1765-72

Beginning to write: the evidence of the autobiographies

Bibliographies

Index