Preface

Four Decades of Change

The Historical Approach

Political and Economic Influences

Study Organization

The Policy Framework: The Early Years

Policies in the 1950s

The Foreign Trade Reforms of 1958 to 1960

Export Promotion in the 1960s

Booming Exports: The First Stage

Heavy Industry Development in the 1970s

Policies in the Context of Rapid Structural Change: 1979 to 1996

The Magnitude of Change

New Situation, Old and New Policies: 1979 to 1984

Economic Liberalization in the Mid-1980s

Economic Liberalization Measures

Toward a Service Economy

The Organization of Private and Public Enterprises

The Rise of Private Industry

The Structure of Small and Medium Enterprises

"Relationship" Enterprises

The Role of Public Enterprises

Macroeconomic Policy

Antecedents: Macroeconomic Policy from 1950 to 1980

Macro-management of the Oil Shocks of 1973 to 1980

Generating External Surpluses: 1980 to 1987

Appreciation, Liberalization, and the End of Internal and External Surpluses

Productivity and Structural Change

Sources of Growth: Estimates

Methodological Issues

Structural Changes in GDP and Industry

Conclusion

Transformation: Taiwan in the 1950s

Transformation: Taiwan in the 1960s and 1970s

Transformation: Taiwan in the 1980s and 1990s

Transformation: Lessons To Be Learned from Taiwan

The Textile and Apparel Industries

The Petrochemical Industry

The Electronics and Information Technology Industries

Policy Regressions

Productivity and Structural Change