Acknowledgements

Table of Contents

List of Figures and Abbreviations Maps

Introduction: The German Navy’s Orthodox Heresy

Change in a Changing World: Naval law and technology in the nineteenth century

The Roots of Plunder: Privateering and the laws of war at sea to 1865

Profit Motive: The development of privateering

War Versus Profit: Belligerents' rights and neutrals' rights

The Declaration of Paris and the End of Privateering

From Seizure to Destruction: The new style of commerce warfare

Conclusion

Means and Method: Naval technology and theory in the mid-nineteenth century

Technology and Navies: New ships, new weapons

The Burden of Empire

Prophet of the New Guerre de Course: Richild Grivel

Conclusion

Early Days, Early Dreams: The navies of Prussia and the North German Confederation, 1856-1871

Precursor to Empire: The Prussian navy to 1864

Prussia and the Sea to 1856: The land power takes to the water

The Beginnings of Prussian Naval Power: Expansion of overseas trade and obligations

Conclusion

The Wars of German Unification and Sea Power, 1864-1871

The Danish and Austrian wars, 1864-1866

The North German Navy and the Problems of World Commerce Protection, 1867-1870

The Franco-Prussian War I: Knorr and the view from abroad

The Franco-Prussian War II: Tirpitz and the view from the Jade

Conclusion

The Army at the Helm: The navy in the Stosch and Caprivi eras, 1871-1888

Albrecht von Stosch and the Neglected Navy, 1871-1872

1871: The unhappy peace

Albrecht von Stosch, the 'General-Admiral'

1872: Adalbert's last foray and Stosch's first

Stosch Reorganizes the Navy

Conclusion

Diverse Fortunes: The Navy Under Stosch, 1873-1883

The 1873 Flottengründungsplan: A new start

Too Many Cooks: The navy and foreign affairs

Erosion and Disaster

Thinking about war: tactics and operations planning

The End of the Stosch Era
Conclusion
Two Schools of Thought: The Jeune Ecole and the cruiser admirals
Defence of Trade, Attack on Trade: British theories of commerce defence and the evolution of the Jeune Ecole in France
Caprivi Takes Office: Jachmann's memorandum
The Cruiser Admirals Have Their Say: The Admiralty Council of 1884
Caprivi's Goals Clarified: The memorandum to the Reichstag, March 1884
Conclusion
Caprivi Off Course: Colonial sideshows, operations planning, construction policies and tactical development, 1884-1888
Naval Sideshow or Vital Task?: The navy and the new colonial policy
Ships for Overseas Service in Peace and War: The Flying Squadron revived
The Minnows and the Whales: Construction policy under Caprivi
Thoughts of War on the Large Scale: Operations planning
Thoughts of War on the Small Scale: The development of battle tactics
Skulduggery and Intrigue: Caprivi's relations with Prince Wilhelm
Conclusion: The illusion of Staatskaperei
Appendices
Terminology of warship types
Use of overseas ports by the Prussian-German navies, 1858-1888
German cruiser classes, 1860-1888
Bibliography
Table of Contents provided by Blackwell's Book Services and R.R. Bowker. Used with permission.