Introduction : working on screen  p. 3
Workers, history, and historiography
In search of the Canadian labour film  p. 25
Communists, class, and culture in Canada  p. 46
The image of the 'people' in the CBC's Canada : a people's history  p. 73
Work, gender, and sexuality
Work it girl! : sex, labour, and nationalism in Valerie  p. 95
Not playing, working : class, masculinity, and nation in the Canadian hockey film  p. 113

Other-ing the worker in Canadian 'gay cinema' : Thom Fitzgerald's The hanging garden  p. 134

Whose museum is it, anyway? : discourses of resistance in the adaptation of The Glace Bay Miners' Museum into Margaret's Museum

Dirty work
Activating history : Sara Diamond and the women's labour history project  p. 161
Dirty Laundry : re-imagining the Canadian Pacific railway and the construction of the nation  p. 178

Working on national cinema
Look like a worker and act like a worker : stereotypical representations of the working class in Quebec fiction feature films  p. 207
Inscriptions of class and nationalism in Canadian 'realist' cinema : Final offer and Canada's sweetheart : the saga of Hal C. Banks  p. 235
Rude and the representation of class relations in Canadian film  p. 246
Counter narratives, class politics, and metropolitan dystopias : representations of globalization in Maelstrom, waydowntown, and La moitie gauche du frigo  p. 268

Table of Contents provided by Blackwell's Book Services and R.R. Bowker. Used with permission.