Preface
Color Plates
Veiled mysteries - Origin and Settlement
Parting the Veils
The Cherokee Place, Its Climate and Natural Resources
The Cherokee Language
Earliest Settlements
Major Culture Phases
Life in the Pisgah Phase
Life in the Qualla Phase
Nacoochee and Peachtree Mounds
Summary: Settlement and Formative Years
The Cherokees: An Adaptable, Dynamic People
Physical Appearance, Material Culture, Games
Daily Attire of Men, Women, and Children
Headdress for Battle or Ball Game
Building Houses
House Furniture
Winter Hothouses
Town Council House
Food and Drink
The Manufacture of Goods
Hunting
Fishing
Killing Eagles
The Ball-play Game
Other Diversions
Summary
Life Cycle
The Naming Ceremony
Marriage
Death, Mourning, and Purification
Social Units
The Towns
The Household
The Seven Clans
The Plant and Animal Worlds
Ceremonies of Corn and the Seasons
Tobacco Ceremonies
Government and Warfare
Early Cherokee Government
Revision of the Mortality Legend
Second Revision of the Mortality Story
Origin of the Sun and the Moon
Origin of Fire as Intercessor
Origin of the Four Cardinal Directions
Thunder
The Morning Star
The Old Corn Woman and the Woman of the East
The Seven Stars
The Religious Festivals

The Ancient Major Festivals
Attending a Great National Festival
The First New Moon of Spring
The New Green Corn Feast
The Ripe Green Corn Feast
The Great New Moon Festival
The Propitiation and Cementation Festival
The Exalting, or Bounding Bush, Festival
Ancient Minor Festivals
Festival Modifications and the Ookah Dance
The Ookah Dance
Common to All Festivals
The Essence of the Festivals
Summary

Transformation of a Culture
Early Expeditions to the Cherokees

Causes of Change
Opportunities to Capitalize
The First Protestant Missionaries
The Festivals
The Republican Government
Encroachment by White Settlers
Summary

The Eastern Cherokees
Decline of Cohesion
The Sacrifice of Tsali
Early Years: Settlement Along the Tuckaseegee
1860-1910
1910-1929
1929-1945
Dances in the 1930s-1940s