Acknowledgements p. viii
Notes on contributors p. ix
Criminal Justice and Political Cultures p. 1
Introduction p. 1
'Policy transfer' and 'lesson drawing' p. 3
Some problems of comparative criminology p. 7
The importance of politics and political culture p. 10
Concluding comments p. 12
Durkheim, Tarde and Beyond: The Global Travel of Crime Policies p. 16
Travelling institutions p. 16
What travels with crime policies? p. 19
Conceptualising the movement of crime policies p. 22
Actors, mechanisms and principles p. 24
Future roads for crime policies p. 27
Globalising Risk? Distinguishing Styles of 'Neoliberal' Criminal Justice in Australia and the USA p. 30
Actuarial justice in the USA p. 31
Actuarial justice and the politics of exclusion p. 32
Actuarial justice in Australia p. 37
The war on drugs and harm minimisation p. 39
Risk and the politics of inclusion and exclusion p. 41
Conclusions p. 44
Policing, Securitisation and Democratisation in Europe p. 49
The field of European policing p. 49
Cultures of post/national policing: mapping the securitisation of Europe p. 54
Questions of postnational democracy: the future governance of European policing p. 64
The Cultural Embeddedness of Social Control: Reflections on a Comparison of Italian and North American Cultures concerning Punishment p. 80
The embeddedness of crime and punishment p. 82
Democracy, the Protestant ethic and punishment p. 84
'Scandal of indulgences' in Rome p. 90
Is religious tradition the explanation for the different propensity to punish? p. 91
Controlling Measures: The Repackaging of Common-sense Opposition to Women's Imprisonment in England and Canada p. 104
Introduction p. 104
The Canadian experience p. 106
The logic of carceral clawback p. 108
Common sense, theory and official discourse p. 109
How theoretical critique empowered contemporary official discourse on women's prisons in England p. 114
Conclusion p. 120