List of Figures
List of Tables

Introduction

Hometown associations as a means of governance in Nigeria
The nature of hometown voluntary associations in Nigeria

The hometown association as a community development agent: the Ijebu-Jesa Union

The changing roles of a hometown association in community development: The Fiditi Progressive Union

Hometown associations as development catalysts: The Case of the Egbe Ibile Omo Awe

Civil society and participation: A Case Study of the Egbe Omo Ilu Okuku
Community mobilization and development: The Asaba Development Association
Development and territoriality of a hometown association: The Odimodi Ebidou Bene

Hometown associations and conflict management: The Experience of the Agila Development Association

The Iyakpi Progressive Union’s role in participatory development
Empowerment of women through associational life: the Eziowelle Improvement Association

Hometown associations as shadow states: The case of Igbos and Yorubas in Kano
Women’s participation in hometown associations
The role of hometown associations in territorial conflict in jurisdictional transformation
Structure, agency and the modification of indigenous institutions

Notes
Bibliography

Table of Contents provided by Blackwell's Book Services and R.R. Bowker. Used with permission.