PREScribing in pregnancy

Second Edition

Edited by PETER RUBIN

Professor, Department of Medicine, Queen's Medical Centre, Nottingham
Contents

Preface vii

PETER RUBIN, chairman of medicine, Department of Therapeutics, Queen's Medical Centre, Nottingham

1 General principles 1

PETER RUBIN

2 Identifying abnormalities 8

KEVIN P HANRETGY, consultant obstetrician and gynaecologist, The Queen Mother's Hospital, Glasgow

MARTIN J WHITTLE, professor of fetal medicine, University of Birmingham

3 Treatment of common minor ailments 22

COLIN W HOWDEN, professor of medicine, Division of Digestive Diseases and Nutrition, University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, USA

4 Antibiotics 29

RICHARD WISE, professor, Department of Microbiology, Dudley Road Hospital, Birmingham

5 Treatment of asthma 46

CATHERINE NELSON-PIERCY, registrar in obstetric medicine, North Thames Regional Health Authority, London

JOHN MOORE-GILLON, consultant physician, Department of Respiratory Medicine, St Bartholomew's Hospital, London
6 Treatment of rheumatic diseases 59
   MARGARET A BYRON, consultant physician, Rheumatology
   Unit, Bristol Royal Infirmary, Bristol

7 Psychotropic drugs 72
   J B LOUDON, consultant psychiatrist, Royal Edinburgh
   Hospital, Edinburgh

8 Treatment of endocrine diseases 85
   W M HAGUE, consultant physician in obstetric medicine,
   Women and Children's Hospital, Adelaide, Australia

9 Treatment of cardiovascular disease 97
   HELEN E HOPKINSON, MRC clinical training fellow,
   Division of Therapeutics, Queen's Medical Centre,
   Nottingham

10 Anticoagulants 105
    MICHAEL DE SWIET, consultant physician, Hammersmith
    Hospitals Trust, London

11 Epilepsy and anticonvulsant drugs 121
    GUY SAWLE, consultant neurologist, Queen's Medical Centre, Nottingham

12 Treatment of diabetes 136
    N J A VAUGHAN, consultant physician, Department of Diabetes and Endocrinology, Royal Sussex County
    Hospital, Brighton

Index 147