Preface xi

I. Basic mechanisms 1

1. The basic mechanisms accounting for age-related decline in cognitive function 3

   Denise C. Park

   Overview of findings from the cognitive aging literature 6

   Mechanisms of cognitive aging 8

   Summary 19

   References 19

2. Concepts and mechanisms of gains in cognitive aging 23

   Roger A. Dixon

   The idea of gains 23

   Conceptualizing gains and losses 24

   Complementary perspectives 25

   Treatments of gains and losses issue 25

   Conceptualizing gains in the context of losses 29

   Conclusion 38

   References 39

3. Pressing issues in cognitive aging 43

   Timothy A. Salthouse

   Process 44

   Product 48

   Process times product 50

   Conclusion 54

   References 54
II. Attention and memory 55

4. Attention and aging 57
   Wendy A. Rogers

   Varieties of attention 58
   A general theory of age-related attention differences 68
   Summary of age-related differences in attention 69
   Future directions in attention research 70
   Practical applications 70
   References 71

5. Age-related changes in human memory 75
   Fergus I. M. Craik

   Types of memory 75
   Procedural memory 77
   The perceptual representational system 78
   Primary memory and working memory 80
   Episodic memory 82
   Semantic memory 84
   Conclusion 87
   References 88

6. Cognitive neuropsychology of the aging brain 93
   Patricia A. Reuter-Lorenz

   Brain structure and the effects of age 93
   Right hemisphere aging 96
   Aging and the neuropsychology of long-term memory 100
   Frontal contributions to working memory, executive functions, and aging 105
   Age-related changes in interhemispheric interactions 108
   Closing remarks 109
   References 110

7. Metamemory from a social-cognitive perspective 115
   John C. Cavanaugh

   Theory and research on metamemory 116
   Interfaces between metamemory and social cognition 120
   Future directions 125
   References 127

8. Autobiographical memory and aging 131
   David C. Rubin

   Memories from the recent past 132
