UNDERSTANDING WOMEN’S MAGAZINES

Publishing, markets and readerships

Anna Gough-Yates
CONTENTS

List of figures ix
Acknowledgements xi

Introduction 1

1 Understanding women’s magazines 6

2 Post-Fordism, post-feminism and the ‘new woman’ in late twentieth-century Britain 26

3 The empires strike back: from Fordism to post-Fordism in the British magazine industry 39

4 Who’s that girl?: advertising, market research and the female consumer in the 1980s 56

5 Seriously glamorous or glamorously serious?: working out the ‘working woman’ 79

6 ‘What women want under the covers’: new markets and the ‘new woman’ in the 1980s 95

7 ‘Marie Claire – c’est moi!’: magazine editors, cultural intermediaries and the ‘new middle class’ 118

8 Desperately tweaking Susan: the business of women’s magazines in the 1990s 132

6 Conclusions 153

Notes 159
Bibliography 166
Index 181