Contents

List of illustrations xi
Preface xiii
Abbreviations xv
Introduction xvii

1 The English language: standards and variation 1
  1.1 Standard English 1
  1.2 Language attitudes 2
  1.3 The emergence of Standard English 4
  1.4 Standard and General English 7
  1.5 Sociolinguistic dimensions of English 9
  1.6 Words in use: the register approach 12
  1.7 Further reading 19

PART 1
English as a linguistic system 21

2 Vocabulary 23
  2.1 Words and meaning 23
  2.2 Lexical relationships 24
  2.3 Dictionaries 26
  2.4 Growth and structure of the English vocabulary 28
  2.5 New words 33
  2.6 Euphemisms and politically correct language 35
  2.7 Word formation 35
  2.8 Shifts of meaning 42
  2.9 Meaning change 43
  2.10 The register approach 45
  2.11 Further reading 47

3 Words in combination 48
  3.1 Fixed expressions as clichés 50
  3.2 Collocations 51
7.5 Discourse markers 188
7.6 Further reading 193

8 Modes of address, power, solidarity and politeness 195
  8.1 The linguistic elements of address in English 195
  8.2 Power, solidarity and politeness 198
  8.3 Domains of modes of address 200
  8.4 Situation of use 207
  8.5 Further reading 208

9 Language and gender 209
  9.1 Reference to males and females 210
  9.2 Language use of males and females 212
  9.3 Communicative strategies 218
  9.4 Language acquisition and development 221
  9.5 Non-verbal behaviour 222
  9.6 Further reading 223

PART 3
National and regional varieties of English 225

10 English in the British Isles 227
  10.1 England and Wales 227
  10.2 Scotland 234
  10.3 Ireland 239
  10.4 Urban British English 245
  10.5 Further reading 248

11 English in America 250
  11.1 The languages of the United States and Canada 250
  11.2 National and regional varieties of AmE 251
  11.3 Social variation in AmE 257
  11.4 Ethnic varieties of AmE 259
  11.5 The languages of the Caribbean 265
  11.6 The linguistic continuum 267
  11.7 Linguistic characteristics of CaribE 268
  11.8 Further reading 270

12 Standard British and American English in comparison 272
  12.1 Pronunciation 272
  12.2 Spelling and punctuation 279
  12.3 Grammar and morphology 283
  12.4 Lexis 289
  12.5 Further reading 294