The State, Democracy and Globalization

Roger King and
Gavin Kendall
Contents

List of Boxes viii
Acknowledgements ix

1 Why Study the State? 1
- Challenges to the nation state 3
- The market and the state 6
- Some key terms 8
- Legitimacy 14
- The following chapters 18

2 The Development of the Modern Nation State 20
- Historical origins 21
- The beginnings of modern forms of rule 24
- The sources of the modern state 28
- Inter-state relations 33
- War, revolution, ideas and administration 34
- The origins of liberalism and capitalism 36
- The development of liberalism and capitalism 39
- The state outside west Europe 48
- Conclusion 55

3 Classical Theories of the State 58
- Marxism 59
- Elite theory 72
- Weber 74
- Theories of the state as a beneficial social instrument 77
- Conclusion: classical state theories reviewed 82

4 Democracy and the State 83
- The first long wave of democracy 85
- The social origins of democracy 90
- Class and ideology 95
- The requisites for democracy 97
Second and third waves | 101
Post-communism | 107
Conclusion | 110

5 The Interventionist State and its Critics | 111
The Keynesian welfare state | 113
The Cold War convergence thesis of East and West | 117
The post-1945 state in the West | 119
New Right | 122
Social democracy and the Third Way | 127
Networks and governance | 129
The regulatory state | 131

6 Globalization | 137
What is globalization? | 139
‘Geographical’ interpretations | 149
The impact of globalization | 151
Globalization: the end of the nation state? | 153
Globalization: something old or something new? | 157
Globalization and national policies | 162
Social/cultural change | 163
Can globalization be rolled back? | 164

7 Suprastate Governance | 166
Realism | 167
International regimes | 169
Global regulation | 171
Human rights, international law and national sovereignty | 179
Cosmopolitan law | 181
Global democracy | 182

8 The Liberal State | 186
Precursors to liberalism: from Machiavelli to \textit{raison d'état} | 187
Police | 189
Information-gathering and the emergence of ‘population’ | 190
Liberalism as a governmentality | 192
Competing rationalities of government | 193
Forms of self: liberal techniques of government | 195
Expertise: governing through social life | 196
Towards neo-liberalism | 198
What is neo-liberalism? | 199
The post-war Keynesian experiment 202
The Ordo-liberalen and the Chicago School 203
Hayek 206
Neo-liberalism in action 207
Neo-liberalism and the abrogation of national responsibility 211
Conclusion 213

9 Power, Domination, Culture and Sociality 216
Machiavelli and anti-Machiavellianism 217
Thomas Hobbes and John Locke: the sovereign and power 219
Marxist conceptions of power 221
Marxism, ideology and power 222
Weber: power, authority and domination 224
Pluralist conceptions of power 226
Elite theories of power 228
Foucault and power 229
Bruno Latour: actors and power 232
From power to power: analysing sexuality 234
Conclusion 236

10 Postscript: The Future of the State 239

Bibliography 242

Index 256