Pharmacy and Medicine in Ancient Egypt

Proceedings of the conferences held in Cairo (2007) and Manchester (2008)

Edited by

Jenefer Cockitt
Rosalie David

BAR International Series 2141
2010
CONTENTS

The ‘Pharmacy in Ancient Egypt Project’ at the KNH Centre for Biomedical Egyptology
A.R. David 1

Complementary Medicine in Ancient and Modern Egypt
R. Baligh 6

How the Success of the Ancient Egyptians Depended on Plants
J. Bellinger 11

Do the Formulations of Ancient Egyptian Prescriptions Stand up to Pharmaceutical Scrutiny?
J.M. Campbell, J.R. Campbell and A.R. David 15

The Application of Archaeobotany, Phytogeography and Pharmacognosy to Confirm the Pharmacopoeia of Ancient Egypt 1850-1200 BC
J.M. Campbell and A.R. David 20

A Reassessment of Warren Dawson’s ‘Studies in Ancient Egyptian Medical Texts’ 1926-1934 in the Light of Archaeobotanical and Pharmacological Evidence
J.M. Campbell, E. El Saeed and A.R. David 30

A Grain of Truth? Determining the Diet of the Ancient Egyptians
J.A. Cockitt 38

Supporting Evidence: The Potential Role of Stable Isotope Data in Investigating the Ancient Egyptian Pharmaceutical Tradition
J.A. Cockitt 42

The X-Ray Plates of Tutankhamen: A Reassessment of their Meaning and Significance
R.C. Connolly 46

Blue Lotus: Ancient Egyptian Narcotic and Aphrodisiac?
D.J. Counsell 51

Cocaine and Nicotine in Ancient Egypt?
D.J. Counsell 56

Dead Men Tell Tales: What we can Learn from the Courtier Skeleton. A Multi-Disciplinary Study
B.L. Dement 60

Histological Examination of Ancient Pomegranate and Wheat
J. Denton and S. Wassef 62

Porotic Hyperostosis in Ancient Egyptians from the Bahriyah Oasis, Graeco-Roman Period
M. Erfan Zaki, A. El-Sawaf, M. Al-Tohamy Soliman and A. Azab 64

Were the Dentists in Ancient Egypt Operative Dental Surgeons or were they Pharmacists?
R.J. Forshaw 72

Skull Injuries Discovered in the Tomb of Djehutimes, Thebes (TT 32)
E. Föthi and Z. Bernert 78

Jidel rnpt or the ‘Pestilence of the Year’
H. Györy 81