Informal Norms in Global Governance

WOLFGANG HEIN
GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies, Germany

SUERIE MOON
Harvard University, USA

ASHGATE
Contents

List of Figures and Tables ix
Foreword xi
Preface xiii
List of Abbreviations xv

1 Introduction 1
(a) Formal and informal norms in the governance of a global society 1
(b) The emergence of the “access to medicines” norm 4
(c) Informal norms and human rights 8
(d) Overview of the book 11

2 Towards a Global Society 15
(a) Globalization 15
(b) From international relations to global governance 18
(c) Transnational actors in global governance 23
(d) Post-Westphalian global health governance 28
(e) Interfaces, nodal governance, and polylateral diplomacy: Elements of the social construction of global health governance (GHG) 34
(f) Global society, global politics and human rights 42

(a) The right to health and to access to essential medicines 47
(b) Sources of formal and informal norms on access to medicines 51
(c) The UN Special Rapporteur on the Right to Health 52

4 Access to Medicines and Intellectual Property 55
(a) Medicines and the global public goods problem 55
(b) Introducing the WTO 57
(c) Introduction to TRIPS—basic issues 59
(d) TRIPS, TRIPS+ and the fight for social issues 64

5 The HIV/AIDS Crisis: The Rise of the Access Norm 67
(a) A brief introduction to HIV/AIDS medicines 67
(b) AIDS treatment and IP rules in the developing world: The special role of Brazil 68
Informal Norms in Global Governance

(c) A window of opportunity: The 1999–2001 “policy crisis” 71
(d) The Doha Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health 75
(e) Early debates on disease scope: The WTO medicines (§6) decision and the TRIPS amendment 79
(f) Improved access to medicines: Using TRIPS flexibilities 82
(g) The first developing country compulsory licenses: Zimbabwe and Malaysia 84
(h) Thailand: Regularizing the use of compulsory licensing 86
(i) Role and character of finance for treatment 96
(j) The rise of access to medicines: Timeline of decisions and increased use of compulsory licensing, 2001–2010 100

Beyond HIV in Africa: Solidification and Expansion of the Access Norm 107
(a) Solidification of the access norm 107
(b) Inclusiveness of the access norm: Which medicines are essential? 113
(c) The inclusiveness of the access norm: Middle-income countries as the new battlefield? 123

Challenges to the Stability of Informal Norms 131
(a) Challenges in access to HIV/AIDS medicines 132
(b) Free trade agreements 133
(c) WTO accession agreements 136
(d) Alternate channels for IP rulemaking 137

Re-framing the Access Norm: Incorporating Innovation 143
(a) From expert commissions to global strategies 144
(b) Innovation and access: I+A 148
(c) Changing expectations for the MICs: Contributions to R&D 153

The Impact of Non-state Actors on Informal Norms: Nodal Governance and Global Democracy 159
(a) Nodal governance and informal norm-building 159
(b) Nodal governance: Interfaces between IGOs, governments and non-state actors in global politics 165
(c) Role and power of non-state actors in global norm-building 170
(d) Transnational democracy: Problems of legitimacy, accountability, power and authority in the open-source anarchy of global politics 174
Contents

10 Conclusions 181
(a) Formal and informal norms 181
(b) Implications for health and implications for global governance 188

Annex 1 The 2001 WTO Doha Declaration on TRIPS and Public Health 193
Annex 2 Timeline of Key Events 195

References 199
Index 231