

Table of Contents

Introduction (William Uricchio and Susanne Kinnebrock)	1
Part One: Media and Social Form
Cluster One: Media and Public Culture
The Deep Structures of Democracy: The Nexus of Communications Policy and Public Culture (Patricia Aufderheide).....	15
Self-Induced “Americanization” – the Role of Journalists in the Collapse of Democratic Confidence (Oliver Bange).....	23
The Culture and Cult of The New York Times (Carlos Widmann).....	35
Political Culture and Media Culture: Constructing Political Identities in the US and Germany (Andreas Dörner).....	41
The Audiences’ Perspective on Global Media Landscapes (Uwe Hasebrink)	49
Cluster Two: Networked Media
Convergence and Diffusion: The Struggle to Re-define Media Practice at the Dawn of the 21st Century (William Uricchio)	61
The Information Empire (Mark Poster)	89
The Conundrum of Communications Technologies and Power (Dagmar Eberle)	105

Cluster Three: Formal Conventions

Television as Myth: Poetics of a Narrative Epistemological System (Joan Kristin Bleicher).....	113
German Mass Media Facing the Crisis: Limits to Normalization? (Jürgen Link).....	125
Visual Images of War in Early American Film (Horst Tonn).....	143

Part Two: Media Specificities

Cluster One: Institutional Practices and Structures of Critical Reception

American Homogenization and Fragmentation: The Influence of New Information Systems and Disinformation Systems (Joshua Meyrowitz).....	153
The Changing World of the Foreign Correspondent (Tom Heneghan).....	187
“It is Dangerous to Read the Newspapers” (Margaret Atwood): War, Media, and Identity Construction in North America (Karin Ikas)	197
The Role of the Media in the Construction and Deconstruction of Heroes in Canada (Donna Coates)	221

Cluster Two: The Media Ensemble and the Aesthetics of War

Fearful Thoughts: US Television Post-9/11 and the Wars in Iraq (Patricia Mellencamp)	239
Plump with Fuel, Ripe to Explode: Media Aesthetics after 9/11 (Bärbel Tischleder).....	267
Works Cited	275