

Contents

Preface	V
List of Contributions	VII
Introduction	1
Part I
1 Access to Bank Accounts and Payment Services	5
1.1 Introduction: Financial Exclusion	5
1.2 Interests, Concerns and Possible Solutions	11
1.2.1 General Trends	11
1.2.2 Underbanked Individuals and Fringe Banks	15
1.2.3 Over-Indebtedness	16
1.2.4 Financial Literacy	21
1.2.5 The Service of General Interest Mission and the Community- Based Approach	22
1.2.6 Concerns and Possible Solutions	29
1.3 The Issue of Measurement and Comparative Analysis	30
1.4 Types of Response	35
1.5 Case Studies.....	43
1.5.1 Europe	43
1.5.2 The Situation Overseas	69
1.6 Result from a Survey in France, Italy and Spain	84
1.7 Conclusions and Future Perspectives	95
1.8 References	99
2 Access to Credit: the Difficulties of Households	107
2.1 Introduction	107
2.2 The Use of Credit by Households	108
2.2.1 The Questionnaire Survey	112
2.3 A Theoretical Framework for Credit Exclusion	117
2.3.1 The Role of Credit to Overcome Social Exclusion	117
2.3.2 Economic Rationales for Credit Exclusion	118
2.4 Beating Credit Exclusion	123
2.4.1 Lending to Households: a Profitable Business Area	124
2.4.2 Reducing the Costs and Risks Associated with Households Loans.....	128

2.4.3	A Wider Scope for Not-For-Profit Intermediaries and Organizations	132
2.5	Conclusions and Policy Implications	134
2.6	References	137
3	Access to Investments and Asset Building for Low Income People	141
3.1	Saving and Asset Accumulation for LMIs: Theoretic Framework.....	141
3.2	The USA Experience with the Individual Development Accounts (IDAs)	145
3.2.1	Features of the IDA Accounts/Programs	145
3.2.2	Stakeholders of the IDA Accounts/Programs	154
3.2.3	Funding of the IDA Accounts/Programs	159
3.3	Saving and Asset Accumulation with Tax Refunds	162
3.4	The British Experience with the Child Trust Fund and the Savings Gateway	165
3.5	Conclusions	172
3.6	References and Bibliography	173
3.7	Appendix - Comment on Data About the “Access to Investment Services”	178
	Appendix to Part I - Methodological Notes to the Field Research in France, Italy and Spain	183

Part II

4	What Are the Specific Economic Gains from Improved Financial Inclusion? A Tentative Methodology for Estimating These Gains	191
4.1	Introduction	191
4.2	Defining Financial Exclusion	192
4.3	European Evidence on Exclusion	193
4.4	Market Context and European Policy Responses	195
4.5	From Exclusion to Inclusion – Identifying the Costs and Benefits	199
4.6	Measuring the Economic Gains from Improved Financial Inclusion ...	207
4.7	Conclusion	209
4.8	References and Bibliography.....	210
5	From Financial Exclusion to Overindebtedness: the Paradox of Difficulties for People on Low Incomes ?	213
5.1	Introduction	213
5.2	A Definition of Financial Exclusion as a Social Phenomenon	215
5.2.1	Return to the Definitions of Financial Exclusion	215
5.2.2	Use Difficulties	217
5.2.3	Financial Exclusion and Social Exclusion: Moving Towards an Overall Definition	219
5.3	Access and Use of Credit: the Importance of Social Constraints	221
5.3.1	The Financialisation of Social Relations	222
5.3.2	Use of Credit as a Forced Response to Life Risks	224
5.4	The Mechanisms Underlying Access and Use Difficulties.....	227

5.4.1	The Reasons for the Banking Relationship	228
5.4.2	The Need for Suitable Advice to Customers on Limited Incomes	231
5.4.3	Banking Imperatives Versus Customisation of the Service	233
5.4.4	Standardisation of the Service that Is the Source of Access and Use Difficulties, and Therefore of Overindebtedness	236
5.5	Conclusion	241
5.6	References	243
6	The Role of German Savings Banks in Preventing Financial Exclusion	247
6.1	Introduction	247
6.2	Savings Banks as a Part of the German Banking System	249
6.2.1	The Three-Pillar Structure of the German Banking System	249
6.2.2	Key Facts of the Sparkassen-Finanzgruppe	251
6.2.3	Relationships Between Municipalities and the Sparkassen- Finanzgruppe	252
6.2.4	Recent Developments Affecting the Sparkassen-Finanzgruppe	253
6.3	Is the Public Mandate of the Savings Banks Obsolete or a Successful Strategy to Prevent Financial Exclusion?	254
6.3.1	Stipulations of the Public Mandate of German Savings Banks	254
6.3.2	Provision of Basic Banking Services	256
6.3.3	Nationwide Provision of Financial Services	257
6.4	Financing of Small and Medium-Sized Enterprises	259
6.5	Encouraging the Accumulation of Wealth and Financial Education	261
6.6	Future Outlook on the Sparkassen-Finanzgruppe	262
6.7	References	265
7	Economic Growth and Financial Inclusion: the Case of Poland	271
7.1	Introduction	271
7.2	Transformation of the Polish Banking Sector and Provision of Banking Services	273
7.3	Provision of Banking Services to Households and Corporations	282
7.4	Models of Bank Services to SME	287
7.5	Barriers to Providing Banking Services to SME: Results of Bank Surveys	290
7.6	Conclusions	294
7.7	References	297
8	Italian Banks' Credit Approach Towards Low-Income Consumers and Microenterprises: Is There a Bias Against Some Segments of Customers?	299
8.1	Introduction	299
8.2	Methodologies of Credit Risk Measurement: Credit Scoring Models	302
8.2.1	The Choice of Highly Explanatory Variables	305
8.3	Strengths and Weaknesses of Credit Scoring	307
8.4	The Effects of the Adoption of Credit Scoring on a Marginal Borrower's Credit Process	310

8.5	The Experiences of Some Italian Banks	313
8.6	Conclusions	318
8.7	References	319
9	Banking the Poor: Policies to Bring Low- and Moderate-Income Households in the United States into the Financial Mainstream	323
9.1	The “Unbanked” and the “Underbanked”	323
9.1.1	The Alternative Financial Sector	324
9.1.2	The Costs of Being Unbanked	326
9.2	The Banking Sector	327
9.2.1	Barriers to Banking the Poor	327
9.2.2	Governmental Policy and Private Sector Innovation	329
9.3	Payments Systems and Distribution Networks	333
9.3.1	Checks and Debit Cards	333
9.3.2	ATMs	335
9.3.3	Direct Deposit and Bill Payment	337
9.4	Transforming Financial Services for the Poor	339
9.4.1	A New First Accounts Tax Credit	339
9.4.2	The Community Reinvestment Act	344
9.4.3	State Policies and Welfare Reform	345
9.4.4	Financial Education	345
9.4.5	Reforming the Alternative Financial Sector	346
9.5	Conclusion	349
9.6	References	350
10	Migrants and Remittances	353
10.1	Migration Phenomena: Modern-Day Elements of an Ancient Phenomenon	353
10.2	The Risk of Financial Exclusion Within a Broader Perspective	355
10.3	Migration Phases and Personal Variables as Key Elements of Financial Needs	356
10.3.1	Demand for Financial Services Aimed at Immigrants	357
10.4	Migrant Remittance Behaviour	365
10.5	Conclusions	368
10.6	References	370
11	Conclusions	373
	Editors and Contributing Authors	377