ARBITRABILITÉ ET DROIT DE LA CONCURRENCE, Matthieu de Boisséson .... 243

I. L’ARBITRABILITÉ DU DROIT DE LA CONCURRENCE ILLIMITÉE DANS SON PRINCIPE ................................................................. 245

1. Une compétence matérielle récemment élargie par les textes: l’arbitre, comme le juge étatique, peut désormais se prononcer sur l’article 81§3 du Traité (Règlement CE 1/2003) ........................................ 245

2. Une compétence matérielle obligatoire et non plus seulement facultative: obligation faite à l’arbitre de soulever d’office les moyens tirés du droit de la concurrence (Eco Swiss: CJCE, 1999; Euromissile: Cour d’appel de Paris, 2004) .......................................................... 246

3. Une compétence matérielle minimalement contrôlée par les juridictions étatiques: seule une violation concrète, effective et flagrante de l’ordre public justifie l’annulation ou la non reconnaissance de
II. L'ARBITRABILITÉ DU DROIT DE LA CONCURRENCE LIMITÉE DANS SON EXERCICE ................................................................. 249

1. Les moyens d'investigation limités de l'arbitre: comparaison entre les pouvoirs de l'arbitre et ceux de la Commission et du Conseil de la concurrence ................................................................. 249

2. La coopération limitée entre l'arbitre et les autorités de la concurrence nationales ou communautaires ................................................................. 250

VI. CONVENTION OF NEW YORK VS. PROTOCOL OF PANAMA/MONTEVIDEU ................................................................. 264

VII. NEW YORK/PANAMA CONVENTION VS. BUENOS AIRES/LAS LEÑAS AGREEMENT ................................................................. 269

VIII. CONCLUSION ........................................................................................................................................... 271

MAY COURTS IN LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES REFUSE RECOGNITION AND/OR ENFORCEMENT OF A FOREIGN ARBITRAL AWARD THAT IS BEING CHALLENGED AT THE PLACE OF ARBITRATION?, María Beatriz Burghetto ................................................................. 273

I. IN WHAT CIRCUMSTANCES SHOULD AN AWARD BEING CHALLENGED IN THE COUNTRY OF ORIGIN BE CONSIDERED «SUSPENDED» UNDER THE NEW YORK CONVENTION (ARTICLE V.1(E))? ................................................................. 274

1. The term «suspended» should be interpreted in an autonomous manner ........................................................................................................................................... 274

2. The history of the drafting of the New York Convention shows that an express decision is necessary in order to consider the award «suspended» ........................................................................................................................................... 276

3. What «suspension» of an award may mean under certain national arbitration legislations ........................................................................................................................................... 278
4. Options that are available to enforcement courts when faced with a request for recognition and/or enforcement of an arbitral award that is being challenged (or subject to a request for suspension) at its country of origin

4.1. Is the above applicable to (and if so, applied by) Latin American countries?

4.2. Conclusion

II. SHOULD A SIMILAR CONCLUSION BE REACHED IN THOSE CASES WHERE OTHER TREATIES MAY BE APPLICABLE?

1. The Panama and the Montevideo Conventions
2. The Mercosur agreements
3. Relationship between the Mercosur agreements and the Panama, Montevideo and New York Conventions
4. Conclusion: Potential contradictory decisions by Latin American courts

III. IS THE NATIONAL ARBITRATION LEGISLATION OF LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES MORE FAVORABLE TO THE RECOGNITION AND/OR ENFORCEMENT OF FOREIGN ARBITRAL AWARDS THAN THE NEW YORK CONVENTION?

IV. WOULD AN AMENDMENT TO THE NEW YORK CONVENTION BE A SUITABLE SOLUTION TO AVOID CONTRADICTORY DECISIONS?
