Borders and Margins

Post-Colonialism and Post-Modernism

Fernando de Toro (EDITOR)
Alfonso de Toro (EDITOR)
Kathleen Quinn (EDITORIAL ASSISTANT)
Table of Contents

Preface: Borders and Margins or the Paradigm of Inquiry in the West .................................................. i

Djelal Kadir, Excursus: What Are We After? ................................................................. iii

Alfonso de Toro, Post-Coloniality and Post-Modernity: Jorge Luis Borges: The Periphery in the Centre, the Periphery as the Centre, the Centre of the Periphery ........................................... 11

Sara Castro-Klarén, Writing Sub-Alterity: Guaman Poma and Garcilaso, Inca ................................. 45

William Luis, Borges, the Encounter, and the Other: Blacks and the Monstrous Races .......................... 61

Patrick Imbert, Post-Modernism, Monotheism, Polysemy, Economism ........................................... 79

Jennifer Mackey, Foe and Robinson Crusoe: An Examination of Place, Space, and Displacement in Colonial and Post-Colonial Literature .............................................................. 91

Michael D'Arcy, The Commitment to Complicity: the Cathexis of the Other and Post-Colonial Theory .......................................................... 103

María Elena de Valdés, Mexican Female Imagery in Como Agua Para Chocolate/Like Water for Chocolate ............................................................ 121

Fernando de Toro, From Where to Speak? Post-Modern/Post-Colonial Positionalities .......................... 131

H. Jill Scott, Loving the Other: Subjectivities of Proximity in Hélène Cixous' The Book of Promethea .......................... 149