

VOLUME

4

LITERARY CRITICISM
AND MYTH

Edited with introductions by

ROBERT A. SEGAL

University of Lancaster

GARLAND PUBLISHING, INC.

New York & London

1996

CONTENTS

Series Introduction	vii
Volume Introduction	xiii
Cultural Anthropology and Contemporary Literary Criticism
Haskell M. Block	2
Myth, Poetry and Philosophy
Kenneth Burke	11
The Hero and the God
Joseph Campbell	36
Myth as Literature
Richard Chase	47
The Meanings of "Myth" in Modern Criticism
Wallace W. Douglas	68
Myth, Poetry, and Critical Theory
Lillian Feder	79
The Archetypes of Literature
Northrop Frye	100
Myth, Fiction, and Displacement
Northrop Frye	119
Mythology into Psychology: Deux ex Machina into God Within
Lilian R. Furst	139
The Plague in Literature and Myth
René Girard	155
Myth Criticism: Limitations and Possibilities
E.W. Herd	173
The Reinterpretation of the Myths
Gilbert Highet	183
Myth, Ritual, and Literature after Girard
William A. Johnsen	200

Myth, Mythology and the Novel: Towards a Reappraisal Francesco Loriggio	233
The Myth and the Powerhouse Philip Rahu	253
Mythology (For the Study of William Blake) Mark Schorer	268
Literature and Myth John B. Vickery	283
The History that Literature Makes Richard Waswo	307
Myth Philip Wheelwright	332
Myth and the Modern Novel John J. White	337
Myth Criticism William Willeford	367
Acknowledgments	371