CONTENTS

- List of figures
  - page xi
- Notes on the contributors
  - xii
- Acknowledgements
  - xiv

1 Notes towards an introduction
  - JAMES VERNON
  - page 1

2 'Our real constitution': trial defence and radical memory in the Age of Revolution
  - JAMES EPSTEIN
  - page 22

3 The English people and their constitution after Waterloo: parliamentary reform, 1815–1817
  - JONATHAN FULCHER
  - page 52

4 Public opinion, violence and the limits of constitutional politics
  - DROR WAHRMAN
  - page 83

5 Making room at the public bar: coroners’ inquests, medical knowledge and the politics of the constitution in early-nineteenth-century England
  - IAN BURNEY
  - page 123

6 Republicanism reappraised: anti-monarchism and the English radical tradition, 1850–1872
  - ANTONY TAYLOR
  - page 154

7 The constitution and the narrative structure of Victorian politics
  - PATRICK JOYCE
  - page 179
CONTENTS

8 Narrating the constitution: the discourse of 'the real' and the fantasies of nineteenth-century constitutional history 204
JAMES VERNON

9 Gender, class and the constitution: franchise reform in England, 1832–1928 238
ANNA CLARK

Index 254