MEANING AND FORM:
SYSTEMIC FUNCTIONAL INTERPRETATIONS

Meaning and Choice in Language:
Studies for Michael Halliday

edited by

Margaret Berry
Nottingham University,
UK

Christopher Butler
College of Ripon and York St John,
Leeds University, UK

Robin Fawcett
University of Wales,
Cardiff, UK

Guowen Huang
University of Wales,
Cardiff, UK

Volume LVII in the Series
Advances in Discourse Processes

Roy O. Freedle, Editor

Ablex Publishing Corporation
Norwood, New Jersey
Contents

Preface to the Series $v$
Introduction $ix$

Part I. The Clause

A. Textual Meaning and Form

1. What Is Theme?—A(nother) Personal View
   - Margaret Berry
   - Page 1

2. Experiential Enhanced Theme in English
   - Guowen Huang
   - Page 65

3. Theme and Information Until Shakespeare
   - Martin Davies
   - Page 113

B. Interpersonal Meaning and Form

4. On the Concept of an Interpersonal Metafunction in English
   - Christopher S. Butler
   - Page 151

5. Modality and Modulation in Chinese
   - Yongsheng Zhu
   - Page 183

6. Amplification as a Grammatical Prosody: Attitudinal Modification in the Nominal Group
   - Cate Poynton
   - Page 211

C. Experiential Meaning and Form

7. Transitivity in Tagalog: A Functional Interpretation of Case
   - J. R. Martin
   - Page 229

8. A Systemic Functional Approach to Complementation in English
   - Robin P. Fawcett
   - Page 297
iv  Contents

9  Turning Grammar on Itself: Identifying Clauses in Linguistic Discourse 367
    Kristin Davidse

10 Attribution and Identification in Gooniyandi 395
    William B. McGregor

Part II. Below the Clause

A. Time and Tense

11 Tense in English Seen Through Systemic-Functional Theory 431
    Christian Matthiessen

12 Towards a Systemic Approach to Tense and Aspect in Polish 499
    Nigel Gotteri

13 Discourse-Pragmatic Distinctions of the Past in Present in English and Spanish 509
    Angela Downing

B. Lexis and the Nominal Group

14 Cultural Classification and System Networks: A Systemic Functional Approach to Lexical Semantics 533
    Gordon H. Tucker

15 "NGp of NGp" Constructions: A Functional-Structural Study 567
    V. Prakasam

Part III. Above the Clause

16 The Development of the Concept of Cohesive Harmony 585
    Gerald Parsons

Part IV. Across Languages

17 A Fragment of a Multilingual Transfer Component and its Relation to Discourse Knowledge 601
    Erich Steiner

Author Index 637
Subject Index 643