CONTENTS

List of figures ........................................ page vii
Notes on contributors ................................ ix
Acknowledgements ..................................... xi

1 Introduction  Geoffrey Cubitt .................... 1

PART I CONCEPTUALISING NATIONALITY

2 Beyond the liberal idea of the nation  Nicholas Stargardt 22

PART II THE NATION IN TIME

3 Storylines: narratives and nationality in nineteenth-century Ireland  Roy Foster 38

4 Tacitus engendered: 'Gothic feminism' and British histories, c. 1750–1800  Jane Rendall 57

5 The redeeming Teuton: nineteenth-century notions of the 'Germanic' in England and Germany  Maike Oergel 75

6 Paving the 'peculiar path': German nationalism and historiography since Ranke  Peter Lambert 92

PART III THE NATION IN SPACE

7 Mapping national identities: the culture of cartography, with particular reference to the Ordnance Survey  Stephen Daniels 112

8 'All ocean is her own': the image of the sea and the identity of the maritime nation in eighteenth-century British art  Geoff Quilley 132

9 Border crossings: Cornwall and the English (imagi)nation  James Vernon 153

10 'What should they know of England who only England know?': Kipling on the boundaries of gender, art and empire  Joanna de Groot 173
PART IV THE INVENTORY OF NATIONHOOD

11 Science and nationhood: cultures of imagined communities  Ludmilla Jordanova  192

12 Imagining national economies: national and international economic statistics, 1900–1950  J. Adam Tooze  212

13 Money and nationalism  Marcia Pointon  229

Index  255