Chapter 2 School and College
How, What, and Why Do We Learn? 39

E. B. White  Education
“The shift from city school to country school was something we worried about quietly all last summer.” 41
Maya Angelou  Graduation
“The white kids were going to have a chance to become Galileos and Madame Curie's and Edisons and Gauguins, and our boys (the girls weren't even in on it) would try to be Jesse Owenses and Joe Louises.” 43

Anna Quindlen  Sex Ed
“I think human sexuality is a subject for dispassionate study, like civics and ethics and dozens of other topics that have a moral component.” 53

Susan Jacoby  When Bright Girls Decide That Math Is “a Waste of Time”
“It is not mysterious that some very bright high-school girls suddenly decide that math is ‘too hard’ and ‘a waste of time.’” 55

Mortimer Adler  How to Mark a Book
“I contend, quite bluntly, that marking up a book is not an act of mutilation but of love.” 59

E. D. Hirsch Jr.  Why America's Universities Are Better Than Its Schools
“There is wide agreement in the international community that the United States has created the best public universities and the worst public schools in the developed world.” 64

Gloria Steinem  The Good News Is: These Are Not the Best Years of Your Life
“As students, women are probably treated with more equality than we ever will be again.” 67

Benjamin R. Barber  America Skips School
“If Americans over a broad political spectrum regard education as vital, why has nothing been done?” 74

Frederick Douglass  Learning to Read and Write
“The more I read, the more I was led to abhor and detest my enslavers.” 85

Richard Rodriguez  The Lonely, Good Company of Books
“Didn’t I realize that reading would open up whole new worlds?” 90

Connections  96

Chapter 3  Family Roles and Gender Roles
What Makes Us Who We Are? 97

Annie Dillard  An American Childhood
“Mother’s energy and intelligence suited her for a greater role in a larger arena—mayor of New York, say—than the one she had.” 100

Amitai Etzioni  Parenting as an Industry
“Nobody likes to admit it, but between 1960 and 1990 American society allowed children to be devalued. . . .” 106
Francis Fukuyama  Immigrants and Family Values
“The notion that non-European immigrants are a threat to family values and other core American cultural characteristics is, in a way, quite puzzling.”    112

Nora Ephron  Crazy Salad
“I suppose that for most girls breasts, brassieres, that entire thing, has more trauma, more to do with the coming of adolescence, of becoming a woman, than anything else.”    125

Margaret Atwood  The Female Body
“The Female Body is made of transparent plastic and lights up when you plug it in.”    132

Paul Theroux  Being a Man
“I have always disliked being a man.”    135

Randall E. Majors  America’s Emerging Gay Culture
“Through the celebration of its unique life style, gay culture promises to make a great contribution to the history of sexuality and to the rights of the individual.”    139

Deborah Tannen  Sex, Lies and Conversation: Why Is It So Hard for Men and Women to Talk to Each Other?    149
“. . . although American men tend to talk more than women in public situations, they often talk less at home. And this pattern is wreaking havoc with marriage.”

Classic and Contemporary: How Much Do Families Matter?    156

Ruth Benedict  Are Families Passé?
“In spite of all our American sentiment about the home and the family, we do not show great concern about buttressing it against catastrophe.”    156

Barbara Kingsolver  Stone Soup
“Arguing about whether nontraditional families deserve pity or tolerance is a little like the medieval debate about left-handedness as a mark of the devil.”    165

Connections    173

Chapter 4  History and Culture
Where Did We Come From and Where Are We Going?    175

Judith Ortiz Cofer  The Myth of the Latin Woman: I Just Met a Girl Named Maria
“Growing up in a large urban center in New Jersey during the 1960s, I suffered from what I think of as ‘cultural schizophrenia.’”    177
N. Scott Momaday  The Way to Rainy Mountain
“My grandmother had a reverence for the sun, a holy regard that now is all but gone out of mankind.”  182

Langston Hughes  Salvation
“I was saved from sin when I was going on thirteen. But not really saved.”  187

Maxine Hong Kingston  The Woman Warrior
“The swordswoman and I are not so dissimilar.”  190

Richard Rodriguez  Children of a Marriage
“Hispanic-American culture is where the past meets the future.”  196

Edward T. Hall  The Arab World
“In spite of over two thousand years of contact, Westerners and Arabs still do not understand each other.”  200

Margaret Atwood  Canadians: What Do They Want?
“It’s hard to explain to Americans what it feels like to be a Canadian.”  208

Alexis de Tocqueville  Some Reflections on American Manners
“In democracies manners are never so refined as among aristocracies, but they are also never so coarse.”  212

Classic and Contemporary: Are We Heading Toward a World Culture?  216

Oliver Goldsmith  National Prejudices
“We are now become so much Englishmen, Frenchmen, Dutchmen, Spaniards, or Germans, that we are no longer citizens of the world. . . .”  216

Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr.  The Cult of Ethnicity
“The growing diversity of the American population makes the quest for unifying ideals and a common culture all the more urgent.”  220

Connections  224

Chapter 5  Government, Politics, and Social Justice
How Do We Decide What Is Fair?  225

George Will  Straight Line to Calamity “America is undergoing a demographic transformation the cost of which will be crushing.”  227

Niccolò Machiavelli  The Circle of Governments
“I say, then, that all kinds of government are defective. . . .”  230

Bruce Catton  Grant and Lee: A Study in Contrasts “They were two strong men, these oddly different generals, and they represented the strengths of two conflicting currents that, through them, had come into final collision.”  233
H. L. Mencken  The Penalty of Death
"Every law-abiding citizen feels menaced and frustrated until the criminals have been struck down. . . ."  237

Andrew Hacker  The Myths of Racial Division
"If anything, there is evidence that race is becoming a less salient factor for growing groups of Americans."  240

Martin Luther King Jr.  The World House
"We have inherited a large house, a 'world house,' in which we have to live together. . . ."  249

Václav Havel  The Divine Revolution
"In recent years the great religions have been playing an increasingly important role in global politics."  254

James Baldwin  Stranger in the Village
"The time has come to realize that the interracial drama acted out on the American continent has not only created a new black man, it has created a new white man, too."  257

Classic and Contemporary: What Is the American Dream?  268

Thomas Jefferson  The Declaration of Independence: In Congress, July 4, 1776
"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."  268

Martin Luther King Jr.  I Have a Dream
"I still have a dream. It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed—we hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal."  272

Connections  278

Chapter 6  Work, Business, and Economics
How Do We Earn Our Keep?  279

Anna Quindlen  Men at Work
"The five o'clock dad has become an endangered species."  281

Perri Klass  Ambition
"Ambition has gotten bad press."  284

Lance Morrow  What Is the Point of Working?
"Work is the most thorough and profound organizing principle in American life."  288

Ellen Goodman  Being a Secretary Can Be Hazardous to Your Health
"'Stress and the Secretary' has become the hottest new syndrome on the heart circuit."  293
E. M. Forster
My Wood
“If you own things, what’s their effect on you?”  296

Richard Rodriguez
Los Pobres
“It was at Stanford, one day near the end of my senior year, that a friend told me about a summer construction job he knew was available.”  299

Robert Reich
Why the Rich Are Getting Richer and the Poor, Poorer
“All Americans used to be in roughly the same economic boat. . . . We are now in different boats, one sinking rapidly, one sinking more slowly, and the third rising steadily.”  304

Jonathan Swift
A Modest Proposal
“I have been assured . . . that a young healthy child well nursed is at a year old a most delicious, nourishing, and wholesome food. . . .”  317

Classic and Contemporary: Does Equal Opportunity Exist?  325

Virginia Woolf
Professions for Women
“Even when the path is nominally open—when there is nothing to prevent a woman from being a doctor, a lawyer, a civil servant—there are many phantoms and obstacles, as I believe, looming in her way.”  325

Henry Louis Gates Jr.
Delusions of Grandeur
“In reality, an African-American youngster has about as much chance of becoming a professional athlete as he or she does of winning the lottery.”  330

Connections  334

Chapter 7
Philosophy, Ethics, and Religion
What Do We Believe?  335

Robert Coles
I Listen to My Parents and I Wonder What They Believe
“In home after home that I have visited, and in many classrooms, I have met children who not only are growing emotionally and intellectually but also are trying to make sense of the world morally.”  337

William J. Bennett
What Really Ails America
“. . . in my view our real crisis is spiritual, a corruption of the heart.”  342

Paula Gunn Allen
The Autobiography of a Confluence
“In my mind, as in my dreams, every road I have traveled, every street I have lived on, has been connected in some primal way to The Road, as we called it, like Plato in our innocence.”  347

Plato
The Allegory of the Cave
“. . . in the world of knowledge the idea of good appears last of all, and is seen only with an effort. . . .”  357
John Donne  No Man Is an Island
“No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main.”  361

Gilbert Highet  The Mystery of Zen
“The doctrine of Zen cannot be analyzed from without: it must be lived.”  364

Stephen L. Carter  The Culture of Disbelief
“In contemporary American culture, the religions are more and more treated as just passing beliefs . . . rather than as the fundaments upon which the devout build their lives.”  373

C. S. Lewis  The Rival Conceptions of God
“The first big division of humanity is into the majority, who believe in some kind of God or gods, and the minority who do not.”  383

Classic and Contemporary: What Is the Value of Life?  387

Virginia Woolf  The Death of the Moth
“As I looked at the dead moth, this minute wayside triumph of so great a force over so mean an antagonist filled me with wonder.”  387

Annie Dillard  Death of a Moth
“The moth’s head was fire. She burned for two hours, until I blew her out.”  390

Connections  395

Chapter 8  Media and the Arts
How Do We Express Ourselves?  397

Joan Didion  On Keeping a Notebook
“The impulse to write things down is a peculiarly compulsive
one. . . .”  399

Annie Dillard  The Writing Life
“The line of words is a miner’s pick, a woodcarver’s gouge, a surgeon’s probe.”  405

Rita Dove  Loose Ends
“Yes, the influence of public media on our perceptions is enormous, but the relationship of projected reality—i.e., TV—to imagined reality—i.e., an existential moment—is much more complex.”  407

Marie Winn  Television Addiction
“Not unlike drugs or alcohol, the television experience allows the participant to blot out the real world and enter into a pleasurable and passive mental state.”  409

Henry Louis Gates Jr.  2 Live Crew, Decoded
“For centuries, African-Americans have been forced to develop coded ways of communicating to protect them from danger.”  412
Dave Barry   Red, White, and Beer
   “Lately I’ve been feeling very patriotic, especially during commercials.” 415

Wright Morris   In Our Image
   “With the camera’s inception an imitation of life never before achieved was possible.” 418

Alice Walker   Saving the Life That Is Your Own: The Importance of Models in the Artist’s Life
   “It is, in the end, the saving of lives that we writers are about.” 428

Classic and Contemporary: Who Controls the Power of Language? 437

George Orwell   Politics and the English Language
   “In our time, political speech and writing are largely the defence of the indefensible.” 437

Casey Miller and Kate Swift   Who’s in Charge of the English Language?
   “In order to encourage the use of language that is free of gender bias, it’s obviously necessary to get authors to recognize gender bias in their writing.” 448

Connections 455

Chapter 9   Science and Technology
   What Can Science Teach Us? 457

Charles Darwin   Natural Selection
   “Natural selection can act only by the preservation and accumulation of infinitesimally small inherited modifications. . . .” 459

Bertrand Russell   The Study of Mathematics
   “Mathematics, rightly viewed, possesses not only truth, but supreme beauty. . . .” 463

Isaac Asimov   Cholesterol
   “Cholesterol is a dirty word these days, and every report that comes out seems to make it worse.” 466

Carl Sagan   Can We Know the Universe? Reflections on a Grain of Salt
   “For myself, I like a universe that includes much that is unknown and, at the same time, much that is knowable.” 468

Perri Klass   Macho
   “Life in the hospital is full of opportunities to prove yourself, if you want to look at it that way.” 474

J. B. S. Haldane   On Being the Right Size
   “For every type of animal there is a most convenient size, and a large change in size inevitably carries with it a change of form.” 477
Stephen Jay Gould
The Terrifying Normalcy of AIDS

"AIDS is both a natural phenomenon and, potentially, the greatest natural tragedy in human history." 482

Terry Tempest Williams
The Clan of One-breasted Women

"I belong to a Clan of One-breasted Women. My mother, my grandmothers, and six aunts have all had mastectomies."
486

Classic and Contemporary: What Is Technological Progress?
494

Lewis Mumford
The Monastery and the Clock

"The clock, not the steam-engine, is the key machine of the modern industrial age." 494

Jeremy Rifkin
The Age of Simulation

"With each new technological marvel, reality becomes more ephemeral and further removed from anything that might be thought of as natural."
499

Connections
510

Chapter 10  Nature and the Environment
How Do We Relate to the Natural World?
511

Rachel Carson
The Obligation to Endure

"The most alarming of all man's assaults upon the environment is the contamination of air, earth, rivers, and sea with dangerous and even lethal materials."
513

Gretel Ehrlich
Wyoming: The Solace of Open Spaces

"Space has a spiritual equivalent, and can heal what is divided and burdensome in us."
519

Mark Twain
Two Views of the Mississippi

"The face of the water, in time, became a wonderful book." 525

Barbara Kingsolver
High Tide in Tucson

"It's starting to look as if the most shameful tradition of Western civilization is our need to deny we are animals."
528

Alexander Petrunkevitch
The Spider and the Wasp

"In the feeding and safeguarding of their progeny insects and spiders exhibit some interesting analogies to reasoning and some crass examples of blind instinct."
538

Joyce Carol Oates
Against Nature

"Who has looked upon her/its face and survived?" 543

John Steinbeck
Americans and the Land

"We are no longer content to destroy our beloved country. We are slow to learn; but we learn."
