Teaching Literature and Medicine

Edited by

Anne Hunsaker Hawkins
Marilyn Chandler McEntyre

The Modern Language Association
New York 2000
Contents

Introduction: Teaching Literature and Medicine:

A Retrospective and a Rationale 1
Anne Hunsaker Hawkins and Marilyn Chandler McEntyre

Part I: Model Courses

Literary Concepts for Medical Readers:

Frame, Time, Plot, Desire 29
Rita Charon

Illness in America 42
Stephanie P. Browner

Medical History and Literary Texts 55
Lilian R. Furst

The History and Literature of Women's Health 65
Suzanne Poirier
Contents

Teaching the Body in Texts:
- Literature, Culture, and Religion
  Kendrick W. Prewitt
  77

Exploring the Human Condition:
- Literature and Public Health Issues
  Martin Donohoe
  92

Ethics, Language, and Narrative
- Iliana Alexandra Semmler
  105

Madness and Suicide as Themes in Western Literature
- Janice L. Willms
  119

Mind and Body, Psyche and Soma: Metaphors from Greek Myth through Literature to the Clinic
- Jan Marta
  128

Literature and Medicine as a Writing Course
- Lois S. Spatz and Kathleen Welch
  141

Light to the Mind: Literature in the Medical Spanish Course
- Elizabeth M. Willingham
  151

The Tyranny of the Normal
- Carol Donley and Sheryl Buckley
  163

Rhetoric and the Politics of Medical Persuasion
- Dieter J. Boxmann
  175

---

Part II: Texts, Authors, Genres

Touchstones: A Brief Survey of Some Standard Works
- Marilyn Chandler McEntyre
  187

Plague Medicine in Langland’s Piers Plowman
- Bryon Lee Grigsby
  200

Teaching Restoration and Eighteenth-Century Medical Texts as Literature
- Paul W. Child
  208

“Doctor” Frankenstein and “Scientific” Medicine
- H. Bruce Franklin
  218
The Nineteenth Century’s Obsession with Medicine:
Flaubert’s Madame Bovary
Michèle M. Respaut

Kafka’s Corpus: Writing
Tuberculosis and Being Literature
Vera Pohland

The Tigers of Wrath: Mann’s
Death in Venice as Myth and Medicine
Laura Otis

“There Is Something Wrong about the Fellow”:
Willa Cather’s “Paul’s Case”
Michelle Bollard Toby

Birthing Death: Sharon Olds’s The Father and the Poetics of the Body
Kristin Lindgren

The Hospital Poetry of U. A. Fanthorpe
Paul Delaney

Health and Healing in the Works of Three
African American Women Writers
Deborah R. Grayson

Critical Conditions: Teaching Illness Narrative
G. Thomas Couser

“Dancing in Very Narrow Spaces”:
Pinter’s A Kind of Alaska in Performance
Elizabeth Homan and Sidney Homan

Part III: Literature in Medical Education and Medical Practice

Sherlock Holmes and Clinical Reasoning
Kathryn Montgomery

Nurses’ Poetry: Expanding the Literature and Medicine Canon
Cortney Davis
Literature and the Irony of Medical Science
LaVera M. Crawley 316

"Poor Yorick": Reflections on Gross Anatomy
Douglas Robert Reifler 327

In Brief: A Literature Seminar in Clinical Medical Education
Joseph Cady 333

Signifying Medication in Thom Jones's "Superman, My Son"
Jonathan M. Metzl 338

(Un)Professional Relationships in the Gendered Maze of Medicine
Rhonda L. Soricelli and David H. Flood 344

"Read Two Chapters and Call Me in the Morning": Teaching Literature to Physicians
Anne Hunsaker Hawkins 353

Part IV: Resources for Teachers and Scholars in Literature and Medicine

General Bibliographies 367
Journals 367
Anthologies of Primary Sources 367
Online Resources at New York University School of Medicine
Felice Aull 368
Centers and Societies 370
Selective Bibliography of Secondary Sources in Literature and Medicine 371
Selective Bibliography of Primary and Secondary Sources in the History of Medicine
Dieter J. Boxmann, Paul W. Child, Bryon Lee Grigsby, Monica Maillet 373
Notes on Contributors 385
Index 399