

SHEDDING LIGHT ON THE DARKNESS

A Guide to Teaching the Holocaust

Edited by

Nancy A. Lauckner and
Miriam Jokiniemi

Berghahn Books
NEW YORK • OXFORD

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	ix
Nancy A. Lauckner
PART I
1. The Holocaust through Literature and Film	3
David Scrase
2. The Well-Utilized Survivor	17
Susan E. Cernyak-Spatz
3. Victims and Perpetrators: The Many Voices of the Holocaust	29
Thomas Freeman
4. Designing within and around Limits: The Holocaust, Madonna, and Me	42
Linda Feldman
5. The Difficulty of Breaking the Silence: Teaching the Holocaust in a Program of German Literature and Culture	59
Dagmar C. G. Lorenz
6. Four Genres and One Question: Why?	77
Steven R. Cerf
7. The Holocaust and Resistance in German Literature	92
Gisela Brude-Firnau
8. Inserting a Short Course on the Holocaust into German Offerings at a Small Liberal Arts College	107
Nancy M. Decker
9. Teaching the Shoah in Context: A Course on Jewish German Relations	124
Karen Remmler

10. German Myths and Jewish Traumas: Teaching Postwar Cultural History 1945–1995 140
Florentine Strzelczyk
11. Witness Grete Weil: An Intensive Summer Graduate Seminar 157
Laureen Nussbaum
12. A Graduate Seminar on the Holocaust and the Third Reich as Reflected in Postwar German Literature 174
Nancy A. Lauckner

PART II

13. The Nazi Period, the Holocaust, and German-Jewish Issues as Integral Subjects in a German Language Course 191
Karin Doerr
14. The Holocaust in an Introductory German Literature Course: Problematic Responses as a Catalyst for Curricular Change 200
Miriam Jokiniemi
15. Beyond Cultural Literacy: “Interactive Autobiography” as Holocaust Pedagogy 211
William Collins Donahue
16. The Teaching (and Not Teaching) of “the Disaster” 225
Leslie Morris

Important Historical Readings on the Holocaust and the Nazi Era 237
Compiled by Ronald Webster

List of Contributors 241

Index 243