Contents

Contributors
Abbreviations
Publisher's Acknowledgements

Introduction

English as a second language in school education
ESL and the education of language minorities in English-speaking countries
ESL as a socially constructed practice

PART I: AUSTRALIA

1 ESL in Australian schools: from the margins to the mainstream

Chris Davison

Introduction
The Australian sociopolitical and educational context
ESL education as 'assimilation'
ESL education as 'integration'
ESL education as 'multiculturalism'
ESL education as 'mainstreaming'
ESL and the National Curriculum
Conclusions

2 Current policies, programs and practices in school ESL

Chris Davison

Introduction
Current program provision
Teacher qualifications and professional development
Curriculum and assessment frameworks
Contents

Pedagogic practice 44
Conclusions 49

3 Integrating language and content: unresolved issues 51
Chris Davison and Alan Williams

- Introduction 51
- Language and content integration: rationale 51
- Integrated language and content curriculum: problems of definition 54
- Language and content integration: towards a descriptive framework 57
- Conclusions 69

4 Identity and ideology: the problem of defining and defending ESL-ness 71
Chris Davison

- Introduction 71
- Problems of identity 72
- New challenges for the ESL profession: beyond a pragmatic response 79
- Defining and redefining professionalism 80
- Defining and redefining professional development 83
- Conclusions 88

PART II: CANADA 91

5 ESL in British Columbia 93
Mary Ashworth

- Immigration 93
- Changing social context 95
- (Lack of) language policies 96
- Programs 99
- Pedagogy 103
- Empowerment 104
- Looking ahead 105

6 The second language as a medium of learning 107
Bernard Mohan

- Introduction 107
- Language as a medium of learning 107
- The Knowledge Framework 109
- Knowledge structures 114
- Activities 120
- Conclusion 125
7 Knowledge Framework and classroom action
   Gloria Tang

   Introduction 127
   Use of the approach at the intermediate level 129
   Use of the approach at the secondary level 133
   Discussion and conclusion 136

8 Implementation of the Vancouver School Board’s ESL initiatives
   Margaret Early and Hugh Hooper

   Introduction 138
   Context 139
   Phase I (1987–90): the language and content project 139
   Phase II: The ESL Pilot Project 144
   Phase III: Current context for ESL support and service initiatives 147
   Reflections: insights and understandings 149
   Conclusion 150

PART III: ENGLAND 151

9 England: ESL in the early days
   Constant Leung and Charlotte Franson

   The 1950s and 1960s 153
   Nature of the educational response: numbers and resources 155
   Early ESL: a ready-made pedagogy? 156
   1970s: a widening perspective 157
   1980s: mainstreaming – refocusing and relocating pedagogy 160
   ESL as an agency of social and educational change 162
   1990s: in the mainstream – different priorities and different questions? 163

10 Mainstreaming: ESL as a diffused curriculum concern
   Constant Leung and Charlotte Franson

   Introduction 165
   Mainstreaming: a specific interpretation 166
   Partnership Teaching 167
   Professional recognition 169
   Liaison time 169
   Teaching purpose 170
   Classroom learning processes 172
   ESL pedagogy 174
   Pupil-sensitive ESL response 174
Contents

11 Evaluation of content-language learning in the mainstream classroom
Constant Leung
Introduction  177
Key aspects of pedagogy in the mainstream classroom: some evaluative questions  177
Language socialisation  195

12 Curriculum identity and professional development: system-wide questions
Constant Leung and Charlotte Franson
Introduction  199
Conceptualisation of the learner  199
Conceptualisation of ESL as a discipline  201
Curriculum development  203
Teacher education and professional development  205
Assessment  207
The nature of funding and provision  211
Future developments  212

Conclusion  215

References  221
Name Index  242
General Index  245