Contents

List of Figures and Tables vii

Foreword ix
  Raymond D. Fogelson

Southeastern Tribal Locations Maps xi

Introduction 1
  J. Anthony Paredes

I Changing Relationships between Anthropologists and American Indians

1 Anthropologists and the Eastern Cherokees 11
  Max E. White

2 “Are You Here to Study Us?” Anthropological Research in a Progressive Native American Community 17
  Susan E. Stans

3 The Archaeologists’—and Indians’—New World 29
  Janet E. Levy

II Southeastern Indians and the Law

4 Federal Tribal Recognition in the South 49
  Géorgie Roth

5 Region and Recognition: Southern Indians, Anthropologists, and Presumed Biology 71
  Karen L. Blu

III Anthropological Contributions to Native American Communities

6 Issues in Alcohol-Related Problems among Southeastern Indians: Anthropological Approaches 89
  Lisa J. LeFler
Contents

7 The Newest Indians in the South: The Maya of Florida 108
   Allan Burns

8 A Disaster: Hurricane Andrew and the Miccosukee 126
   Penny Jessel

IV Culture Preservation and Ethnic Identity

9 Celebrations and Dress: Sources of Native American Identity 143
   Patricia Lerch

10 From Mob to Snob: Changing Research Orientations from Activism to Aesthetics among American Indians 156
    Rachel A. Bonney

V Culture Contact and Exchange

11 Mobilian Jargon in Southeastern Indian Anthropology 175
   Emanuel J. Drechsel

12 Hypergamy, Quantum, and Reproductive Success:
    The Lost Indian Ancestor Reconsidered 184
    Michael H. Logan and Stephen D. Ousley

13 American Indian Life and the 21st-Century University:
    The "Playful Worldview" and Its Lessons for Leadership in Higher Education 203
    Kendall Blanchard

Conclusions 214
   Rachel A. Bonney

Comments 222
   Clara Sue Kidwell
   Billy L. Cypress
   Larry D. Haikey

Notes 235

References 241

List of Contributors 277

Index 281