Beyond Borders: Re-defining Generic and Ontological Boundaries

Edited by
RAMÓN PLO-ALASTRÚÉ
MARÍA JESÚS MARTÍNEZ-ALFARO

Universitätsverlag
C. WINTER
Heidelberg
Table of Contents

Foreword .................................................................................................................. 7

María Jesús Martínez Alfaro and Ramón Plo Alastrué
(University of Zaragoza)
Ontologies and Genres: The Dynamics of Mergence and Subversion ................. 9

James R. Aubrey (Metropolitan State College of Denver)
"Reality Games" in Postmodern Anglophone Cinema:

Sonia Baело Allué (University of Zaragoza)
High and Popular Culture: The Use of Detective Fiction in Bret Easton Ellis’s American Psycho .......................................................... 31

María Pilar Berruete Rodríguez (University of Zaragoza)
Matthew Barber versus Bertram W. Beath: The Struggle for Identity in Eric Kraft’s Reservations Recommended ............................................ 43

Mónica Calvo Pascual (University of Zaragoza)
Chaos and Borders in Stephen Marlowe’s The Memoirs of Christopher Columbus ................................................................. 55

Francisco Collado Rodríguez (University of Zaragoza)
Fear of the Flesh, Fear of the Borg: Narratives of Bodily Transgression in Contemporary U.S. Culture .................................................. 67

Ángeles de-La Concha (UNED, Madrid)
"Crossing the lines, crossing the squares."
Marina Warner’s New Cartography of The Tempest .................................. 81

Violeta Delgado Crespo (University of Zaragoza)
"Finding Forms to Accommodate the Chaos:"
Literature and Painting in John Banville’s Art Trilogy ........................................ 95

José Ángel García Landa (University of Zaragoza)
Catastrophism and Hindsight: Narrative Hermeneutics in Biology and in Historiography ............................................................. 105

Carmen Indurain Eraso (Public University of Navarra)
Boys on the Side: Undermining the Road Movie’s Generic Expectations .... 121

María Lourdes López Ropero (University of Santiago)
Irony’s Political Edge: Genre Pastiche in Caryl Phillip’s Cambridge .......... 131
SILVIA MARTÍNEZ FALQUINA (University of Oviedo)
Beyond Borders: Trickster Discourse in Louise Erdrich's Fiction ...............139

SUSANA ONEGA JAÉN (University of Zaragoza)
The Descent to the Underworld and the Transition from Ego to Eidos in the Novels of Peter Ackroyd .................................................................157

DORA SALES SALVADOR (University Jaume I, Castellón)
Vikram Chandra's Transcultural Narrative: Red Earth and Pouring Rain,
Much More than a Novel .............................................................................175

JÜRGEN SCHLAEGER (Humboldt University, Berlin)
Who's Afraid of Ian McEwan? .................................................................185

JUAN A. TARANCÓN DE FRANCISCO (University of Zaragoza)
"You Know Which Side a' the Border Yer On?":
Paris, Texas and the Spectacle of Consciousness .......................................197

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS .............................................................................205