THE
Iron Gall INK meeting
4th & 5th September 2000
The University of Northumbria
Newcastle upon Tyne
Postprints
Edited by Miss A. Jean E. Brown
Contents

Introduction 5

David Dorning
Iron Gall inks: variations on a theme that can be both ironic and galling 7

Carlo James
The evolution of Iron Gall ink and its aesthetical consequences 13

Rachel-Ray Cleveland
Selected 18th, 19th and 20th century Iron Gall ink formulations developed in England, France Germany and the United States, for use with the Copy Press process 23

Dr Vincent Daniels
The chemistry of Iron Gall ink 31

Jane Colbourne
A survey of methods used in the technical examination and analysis of brown inks 37

Dr Jedert Vodopivec & Dr Milos Budnar
Analysis of Iron Gall ink by PIXE 47

Nathalie J.M.C. Penders, Dr John B.G.A. Havermans & Dr Wim Genuit
Emission of volatile organic compounds from objects affected by Iron Gall ink and ink components after accelerated ageing 53

Alan Donnithorne & Michael Warnes
The conservation of Iron Gall ink drawing in the Royal Collection 59

Birgit Reissland
Visible progress of paper degradation caused by Iron Gall inks 67

Dr Maria Carme Sistach & Núria Ferrer
Iron Gall ink corrosion in manuscripts 73

Caroline Barry & Dr John Fields
An examination of iron gall ink drawings in the British Museum deacidified with barium hydroxide 83

Dr John B.G.A. Havermans & Nathalie J.M.C. Penders
The role of different accelerated ageing techniques in the evaluation of conservation treatments of objects affected with Iron Gall ink 89

Céline Remazeilles, Veronique Quillet, Myriam Eveno
Stéphane Bouvet & Thi phuong Nguyen
Colour measurements on Iron Gall inked papers 95

Nina Hesselberg-Wang
The Conservation of Henrik Ibsen's debut play 'Catelina' 103

Birgit Reissland
Ink corrosion: side-effects caused by aqueous treatments for paper objects 109

Elmer Eusman & Kees Mensch
Ink on the run - measuring migration of iron in Iron Gall ink 115

Dr Johan Gerrit Neevel
(Im)possibilities of the phytate treatment 125

Dr Jana Kolar & Dr Matija Strlic
Stabilisation of ink corrosion 135