Contents

Acknowledgements vii

1 Introduction: Interrogating Cultural Studies 1
Paul Bowman

Part One: From Cultural Studies

2 From Cultural Studies to Cultural Criticism? 19
Catherine Belsey

3 From Cultural Studies to Cultural Analysis: 'A Controlled Reflection on the Formation of Method' 30
Mieke Bal

4 The Projection of Cultural Studies 41
Martin McQuillan

Part Two: Cultural Studies (&) Philosophy

5 Why I Love Cultural Studies 59
Simon Critchley

6 Two Cheers for Cultural Studies: A Philosopher's View 76
Chris Norris

Part Three: For Cultural Studies

7 Inventing Recollection 101
Adrian Rifkin

8 Becoming Cultural Studies: The Daydream of the Political 125
Griselda Pollock

Part Four: What Cultural Studies

9 Friends and Enemies: Which Side is Cultural Studies On? 145
Jeremy Gilbert

10 ... As If Such a Thing Existed ... 162
Julian Wolfreys
Part Five: Positioning Cultural Studies

11 Cultural Studies, in Theory
   John Mowitt
   175

12 The Subject Position of Cultural Studies:
   Is There a Problem?
   Jeremy Valentine
   189

13 What Can Cultural Studies Do?
   Steven Connor
   207

Part Six: Against Cultural Studies

14 Responses
   Thomas Docherty
   221

15 Unruly Fugues
   Lynette Hunter
   233

Notes on Contributors
   253

Index
   256