The Digital Factor in Library and Information Services

Edited by

G. E. Gorman

School of Information Management, Victoria University of Wellington

THE SCARECROW PRESS, INC.
LANHAM, MARYLAND, 2002
Contents

Editorial Advisory Board 2002/2003 vii
About the contributors x
Introduction xiv

Part 1  In Praise of the Digital Revolution? 1
1  The spectrum of digital objects in the library and beyond 3
   Marilyn Deegan
2  Digital versus print issues 26
   Lorna Peterson

Part 2  Institutional Models and Finance 45
3  New models of the library in a digital era 47
   Peter Brophy
4  The economic opportunities and costs of developing digital libraries and resources 68
   Simon Tanner

Part 3  Books and 'Readers' 89
5  Reading in a digital age 91
   Catherine Sheldrick Ross
6  Judging a book by its cover: e-books, digitization and print on demand 112
   Shirley Hyatt
7  The digital library and younger users 133
   Denice Adkins
Part 4  Reference Services

8  Web-based reference services: design and implementation decisions
   Stephen M. Mutula
   157

9  Web-based reference services: the user-intermediary interaction perspective
   Sherry Shiuan Su
   185

10 Digital library initiatives for academic teaching and learning: towards a managed information environment for online learning
    Judith Clark
    208

11 It's just a click away, or is it? The challenge of implementing a global information network
    Diane Kresh
    236

Part 5  Collection Management

12 Evaluating digital collections
    Alastair G. Smith
    259

13 Creating content together: an international perspective on digitization programmes
    David Dawson
    282

Part 6  Standards and Technology

14 Making sense of metadata: reading the words on a spinning top
    Daniel G. Dorner
    303

15 Beyond today's search engines
    Christopher Brown-Syed
    340

16 Are we information providers or the information police? The uneasy marriage between access and security
    Shadrack Katuu
    361

Index

379