Information and IT literacy
Enabling learning in the 21st century

Edited by Allan Martin and Hannelore Rader
Contents

Contributors ix
Editors' introduction xi

Part 1 Contexts 1
1 Towards e-literacy 3
   Allan Martin
2 Information literacy – a global perspective 24
   Hannelore Rader

Part 2 Exploring the Seven Pillars model 43
3 The SCONUL Task Force on Information Skills 45
   Hilary Johnson
4 Information literacy: definition, measurement, impact 53
   J. Stephen Town
5 Information literacy at the Open University: a developmental approach 66
   Chris Dillon, Gill Needham, Linda Hodgkinson, Jo Parker and Kirsty Baker
18 IT literacy: more learning, less cost 194
Deborah Walters, Debra Burhans, Barbara Sherman, Carl Alphonce and Helene Kershner

Part 4 Research perspectives 205

19 Creating effective information users 207
Sarah McNicol

20 Information literacy from the learner’s perspective 217
Mark Hepworth

21 Schoolchildren searching the internet – teachers’ perceptions 234
Andrew Madden, Nigel Ford, David Miller and Philippa Levy

22 Attitudes of academics to the library’s role in information literacy education 244
Claire McGuinness

23 The Big Blue project 255
Louise Makin

24 Using information in the 5–14 curriculum in Scotland 264
Audrey Sutton

25 Infonauts: transcultural issues in information societies 274
Nader Naghshineh

Index 281