Contents

Preface vii
Abbreviations ix

Introduction
DEREK PEARSALL 1

Learning Latin in Anglo-Saxon England: Traditions, Texts and Techniques
JOYCE HILL 7

“A Man Takes an Ox by the Horn and a Peasant by the Tongue”: Literacy, Orality and Inquisition in Medieval Languedoc
JOHN H. ARNOLD 31

Selby Abbey and its Twelfth-Century Historian
JANET BURTON 49

Did Medieval English Women Read Augustine’s Confessiones? Constructing Feminine Interiority and Literacy in the Eleventh and Twelfth Centuries
LINDA OLSON 69

Reading, Singing and Understanding: Constructions of the Literacy of Women Religious in Late Medieval England
KATHERINE ZIEMAN 97

The Women Readers in Langland’s Earliest Audience: Some Codicological Evidence
KATHRYN KERBY-FULTON 121

Learning to Be a Man, Learning to Be a Priest in Late Medieval England
P.H. CULLUM 135

The York Cycle and Instruction on the Sacraments
PAMELA M. KING 155
Contents

London Pride: Citizenship and the Fourteenth-Century Custumals of the City of London
DEBBIE CANNON 179
Parochial Libraries in Pre-Reformation England
STACEY GEE 199