Contents

Acknowledgements vii

Foreword ix

Mark Thomas

Introduction 1

David Miller

Part 1 The Media War

1. A great betrayal 15
   John Pilger

2. The lies of old 18
   John Pilger

3. The case for civil disobedience 23
   John Pilger

4. Crime against humanity 29
   John Pilger

5. The unthinkable is becoming normal 34
   John Pilger

Part 2 Propaganda Wars

6. War is sell 41
   Laura Miller, John Stauber and Sheldon Rampton

   Nancy Snow

8. Misreporting war has a long history 63
   Des Freedman

9. Psychological warfare against the public: Iraq and beyond 70
   Mark Curtis

10. The propaganda machine 80
    David Miller

11. History or bunkum? 100
    Phillip Knightley

12. Spies and lies 108
    Stephen Dorril

13. No blood for oil? 115
    Andy Rowell

Part 3 Misreporting War

14. The minute it's made up, you'll hear about it 129
    Mark Steel
vi Tell Me Lies

15. Reporting the war on British television
   Justin Lewis and Rod Brookes
   132

16. 9/11, spectacles of terror, and media manipulation
   Douglas Kellner
   144

17. “Look, I’m an American”
   Norman Solomon
   157

18. “Let the atrocious images haunt us”
   Julian Petley
   164

19. Normalising godfatherly aggression
   Edward Herman
   176

20. Little Ali and other rescued children
   Patricia Holland
   185

21. Watchdogs or lapdogs? Media, politics and regulation:
    the US experience
   Granville Williams
   195

22. The BBC: a personal account
   Abdul Hadi Jiad
   204

23. Mass deception: how the media helped the government deceive the people
   David Edwards and David Cromwell
   210

24. Covering the Middle East
   An interview with Robert Fisk
   215

25. Why the BBC ducks the Palestinian story
   Tim Llewellyn
   222

26. Black holes of history: public understanding and the shaping of our past
   Greg Philo and Maureen Gilmour
   232

Part 4 Alternatives

27. Al Jazeera's war
   Faisal Bodi
   243

28. Target the media
   Tim Gopsill
   251

29. Turning my back on the mainstream
   Yvonne Ridley
   262

30. Inside the system: anti-war activism in the media
   David Crouch
   269

31. Disruptive technology: Iraq and the internet
   Alistair Alexander
   277

32. The anti-war movement
   An interview with Noam Chomsky
   286

Notes on contributors
Index

293
298