Archipelagic Identities
Literature and Identity in the Atlantic Archipelago, 1550–1800

Edited by
PHILIP SCHWYZER and SIMON MEALOR

ASHGATE
Contents

List of Figures vii
Contributors viii

Introduction 1
Philip Schwyzer

1 An Uncertain Union (A Dialogue) 8
David Baker and Willy Maley

PART I: LOOKING FOR BRITAIN

2 This Pleasant and Sceptred Isle: Insular Fantasies of National Identity in Anne Dowriche’s The French Historie and William Shakespeare’s Richard II 25
Kate Chedgzoy

3 Whose Pastorals? William Browne of Tavistock and the Singing of Britannia 43
Gillian Wright

4 Defoe, Scotland, and Union 53
John Kerrigan

PART II: SPENSER’S ISLANDS

5 Marrying Waterways: Politicizing and Gendering the Landscape in Spenser’s Faerie Queene River-Marriage Canto 81
Joan Fitzpatrick

6 From Irish Countries to English Counties: State Sovereignty and Territorial Reorganization in Early Modern Ireland 92
Swen Voekel

7 Spenser and the Stuart Succession 113
Andrew Hadfield
PART III: REPRESENTING THE NATION

8 Provincial Identification and the Struggle over Representation in Thomas Coryat’s Crudities (1611) 131
Melanie Ord

9 The Complaint of Caledonia: Scottish Identity and the Female Voice 141
Murray G.H. Pittock

Michael Roberts

PART IV: IMMIGRANTS AND EMIGRANTS

11 ‘Signes of a Stranger’: The English Language and the English Nation in the Late Sixteenth Century 169
Emma Smith

12 O Belle Tamise: The Development of a Huguenot Pastoral Mode in Elizabethan England 180
Simon Mealor

13 ‘Our British Land’: Anne Bradstreet’s Atlantic Perspective 195
Christopher Ivic

Bibliography 205
Index 224