Australia to 1901: Selected Readings in the Making of a Nation

Martin Crotty
Erik Eklund
Contents

Introduction: Why History? 1

1 Beginnings – Where does Australian history start? 9

2 European perceptions of Australia 33

3 The decision to settle Botany Bay 60

4 Convict lives 96

5 Histories of convict women

6 The migration experience – coming to Australia

Haines, Robin. "'The Idle and the Drunken Won't Do There': Poverty, the New Poor Law and Nineteenth-Century Government-assisted Emigration to Australia from the United Kingdom'. Australian Historical Studies 28 (1997): 1–21.

7 The gold rushes and the Chinese

8 Race relations on the colonial frontier

9 Squatters, selectors and the Kelly outbreak

10 The bush legend

Lawson, Henry. In the Days when the World was Wild: And Other Verses. Sydney: Angus and Robertson, 1900, 137–141 ('Up the Country') and 147–157 ('The City Bushman').

11 The Great Strikes and the rise of Labor

12 Missionaries and Indigenous Australians

13 The 'Woman Movement' and Australian feminism

14 Australia at Federation

Conclusion

Appendix: Non-Aboriginal Population of Australia, 1796–1901