Discourse Patterns in Spoken and Written Corpora

Edited by
Karin Aijmer
Göteborg University

Anna-Brita Stenström
University of Bergen

John Benjamins Publishing Company
Amsterdam/Philadelphia
Contents

List of contributors vii
Discourse patterns in spoken and written corpora 1
Karin Aijmer and Anna-Brita Stenström

Part I. Cohesion and coherence 15
The cataphoric indexicality of titles 17
Annalisa Baicchi
Cataphoric complexity in spoken English 39
Silvia Bruti
The role of multiple themes in cohesion 65
Hilde Hasselgård
Dialogical coherence? Patterns of cohesion in face-to-face conversation and e-mail mailing list messages 89
Sanna-Kaisa Tanskanen

Part II. Metadiscourse and discourse markers 111
Gestural and symbolic uses of the deictic “here” in academic lectures 113
Julia Bamford
The discourse function of contrastive connectors in academic abstracts 139
Marina Bondi
The discourse functions of I don’t know in English conversation 157
Giuliana Diani
They’re a little bit different… Observations on hedges in academic talk 173
Anna Mauranen
Interaction in written economics lectures: The meta-discursive role of person markers 199
Christina Samson

Part III. Text and information structure 217
Using non-extraposition in spoken and written texts: A functional perspective 219
Gunther Kaltenböck
Part IV. Metaphor and text 243

English metaphors and their translation: The importance of context 245

Kay Wikberg

Index of names 267
Index of terms 271