Contents

Preface to the Series vii
Foreword xiii

Part I: Theoretical Positions and Reflections

Chapter 1: Narrative Psychology and Historical Consciousness:
Relationships and Perspectives
Donald E. Polkinghorne 3

Chapter 2: Past and Present as Narrative Constructions
Jerome S. Bruner 23

Chapter 3: Telling Stories, Making History: Toward a Narrative
Psychology of the Historical Construction of Meaning
Jürgen Straub 44

Chapter 4: Narrative, Moral Identity, and Historical Consciousness:
A Social Constructionist Account
Kenneth J. Gergen 99

Chapter 5: Narrative Truth and Identity Formation:
Abduction and Abuse Stories as Metaphors
Donald P. Spence 120

Part II: On the Development of Narrative Competence and Historical Consciousness

Chapter 6: The Concept of Time and the Faculty of Judgment in the Ontogenesis of Historical Consciousness
Micha Brumlik 135
Chapter 7: Historical Consciousness: The Progress of Knowledge in a Postprogressive Age
Peter Seixas

Part III: Empirical Research / Case Studies

Chapter 8: Empirical Psychological Approaches to the Historical Consciousness of Children
Elfriede Billmann-Mahecha and Monika Hausen

Chapter 9: The Psychological Study of Historical Consciousness
Samuel S. Wineburg

Chapter 10: Biography—A Dream? Self-Chronicling in the Age Psychoanalysis
Brigitte Boothe

Chapter 11: Authenticity and Authority: On Understanding the Shoah
Alexandre Métraux

Chapter 12: Albert Speer’s Memories of the Future: On the Historical Consciousness of a Leading Figure in the Third Reich
Harald Welzer

Bibliography

Notes on Contributors

Index of Names