A Companion to Hemingway’s
Death in the Afternoon

Edited by
Miriam B. Mandel

CAMDEN HOUSE
Contents

Acknowledgments xi
Hemingway Works That Address the Bullfight xiii
A Note on the Text of _Death in the Afternoon_ xvii
Introduction 1
  Miriam B. Mandel

Composition, Sources, and Backgrounds

The Composition, Revision, Publication, and Reception of _Death in the Afternoon_ 21
  Robert W. Trogdon

“Devout Again by Cynicism”: Lord Byron and Don Juan in _Death in the Afternoon_ 43
  Lisa Tyler

“I like you less and less”: The Stein Subtext in _Death in the Afternoon_ 59
  Linda Wagner-Martin

Subject and Author: The Literary Backgrounds of _Death in the Afternoon_ 79
  Miriam B. Mandel

Reading Texts, Paratexts, and Absence

“The Real Thing”? Representing the Bullfight and Spain in _Death in the Afternoon_ 123
  Peter Messent
“Very Sad but Very Fine”: Death in the Afternoon’s Imagist Interpretation of the Bullfight-Text
Beatriz Penas Ibáñez

“Far from Simple”: The Published Photographs in Death in the Afternoon
Anthony Brand

Deleted “Flashes”: The Unpublished Photographs of Death in the Afternoon
Anthony Brand

“¿Qué tal, hombre, qué tal?:” How Paratexts Narrow the Gap between Reader and Text in Death in the Afternoon
Nancy Bredendick

On Authorship and Art

“Prejudiced through Experience”: Death in the Afternoon and the Problem of Authorship
Hilary K. Justice

“The Sequence of Motion and Fact”: Cubist Collage and Filmic Montage in Death in the Afternoon
Amy Vondrak

And What Came After

The Legacy of Death in the Afternoon:
Norman Mailer and Barnaby Conrad
Keneth Kinnamon

Works Cited

Notes on the Contributors

Index