Contents

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS 7

CONTRIBUTORS 9

INTRODUCTION 11
   David Dickson

I. L’ANCIEN RÉGIME

   Energy rich, energy poor:
   Scotland, Ireland and Iceland 1600–1800
   T.C. Smout 19

   Irish and Scottish development revisited
   T.M. Devine 37

   Did Ireland starve?
   L.A. Clarkson 52

   Economic progress in the canal age
   Bruce M.S. Campbell 63

   Tupac Amaru and Captain Right:
   A comparative perspective on eighteenth-century Ireland
   S.J. Connolly 94

   Transportation from Ireland to North America, 1703–1789
   James Kelly 112

   Louis Cullen: De l'histoire des communautés marchandes irlandaises en France, à celle des eaux-de-vie et de l'histoire économique de la France au XVIIIe siècle
   J-P. Poussou 136
II. LOYAL AND DISLOYAL SUBJECTS

New York City's Irish merchants and trade with the enemy during the Seven Years War
Thomas M. Truxes 147

The social composition of the Catholic Convention, 1792–3
C.J. Woods 165

Henrietta Battier: Poet and radical, 1751–1813
Ann C. Kavanaugh 172

A house divided: The Loftus family, earls and marquesses of Ely, c. 1600–c. 1900
A.P.W. Malcomson 184

A bowling match at Castlemary, County Cork
Mairead Dunlevy and Cormac Ó Gráda 225

Harry Boland's American Revolution, 1919–1921
David Fitzpatrick 230

III. MEASURING MODERNIZATION

The cost of living in Ireland, 1698–1998
Liam Kennedy 249

Irish trade in the nineteenth century
Peter M. Solar 277

The Irish distilling industry under the Union
Andy Bielenberg 290

Moral hazard and quasi-central banking:
Should the Munster Bank have been saved?
Cormac Ó Gráda 316

Ireland and the bigger picture
Kevin H. O'Rourke 342

The modernization of rural Ireland, c. 1920–c. 1960
M.E. Daly 356

The roots of contemporary Irish economic development
Kieran A. Kennedy 370

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF L.M. CULLEN

David Dickson 386