Contents

Introduction / 1
Phillip Buckner

1 Imperial Twilight, or When Did the Empire End? / 15
John Darwin

2 Canadian Relations with the United Kingdom at the End of Empire,
1956-73 / 25
John Hilliker and Greg Donaghy

3 'Ready, Aye, Ready' No More? Canada, Britain, and the Suez Crisis in the Canadian Press / 47
José E. Igartua

4 The Last Great Royal Tour: Queen Elizabeth's 1959 Tour to Canada / 66
Phillip Buckner

5 'An Objective of US Foreign Policy since the Founding of the Republic':
The United States and the End of Empire in Canada / 94
Gordon T. Stewart

6 Britain, Europe, and Diefenbaker's Trade Diversion Proposals, 1957-58 / 117
Tim Rooth

7 Customs Valuations and Other Irritants: The Continuing Decline of Anglo-Canadian Trade in the 1960s / 133
Bruce Muirhead

8 Asleep at the Wheel?: British Motor Vehicle Exports to Canada, 1945-75 / 151
Steve Koerner
9 Britain, Europe, and the ‘Other Quiet Revolution’ in Canada / 165
   Andrea Benvenuti and Stuart Ward

10 Nostalgia and National Identity: The History and Social Studies Curricula of Alberta and Ontario at the End of Empire / 183
   George Richardson

11 The Persistence of Britain: The Culture Project in Postwar Canada / 195
   Paul Rutherford

12 From Guthrie to Greenberg: Canadian High Culture and the End of Empire / 206
   Allan Smith

13 Ontario’s Agenda in Post-Imperial Constitutional Negotiations, 1949-68 / 216
   P.E. Bryden

14 The Last Gasp of Empire: The 1964 Flag Debate Revisited / 232
   Gregory A. Johnson

15 ‘One Flag, One Throne, One Empire’: The IODE, the Great Flag Debate, and the End of Empire / 251
   Lorraine Coops

16 More Royal than Canadian? The Royal Canadian Navy’s Search for Identity, 1910-68 / 272
   Marc Milner

17 Technology and Empire: The Ideas of Harold A. Innis and George P. Grant / 285
   R. Douglas Francis

18 Petitioning the Great White Mother: First Nations’ Organizations and Lobbying in London / 299
   J.R. (Jim) Miller

Contributors / 319

Index / 321