Contents

Preface ix

1 Introduction: Continuities and Contrasts in an Essentially Contested Field 1
   Chris Hann, Mihály Sárkány, Peter Skalnik

PART ONE: Country Overviews 21

2 Ethnographie as a Unified Anthropological Science in the German Democratic Republic 25
   Karoline Noack, Martina Krause

3 Czechoslovakia: From Národopis to Etnografie and Back 55
   Peter Skalnik

4 Hungarian Anthropology in the Socialist Era: Theories, Methodologies, and Undercurrents 87
   Mihály Sárkány

5 Polish Anthropology under Socialism: Intellectual Traditions, the Limits of Freedom, and New Departures 109
   Aleksander Posern-Zieliński

PART TWO: The Early Phase 129

6 Onwards, But in Which Direction? Anthropology at the University of Leipzig between 1950 and 1968 133
   Dietrich Treide

7 The Adaptation of Soviet Models in Polish Anthropology before 1956 159
   Zbigniew Jasiewicz

8 The Foundation of the Czechoslovak Academy of Sciences in 1952 and Its Importance for Czech Národopis 171
   Olga Skalniková
9 The Genesis of Volkskunde in the German Democratic Republic
Wolfgang Jacobeit

PART THREE: Socialist Anthropology at Home

10 Volkskunde in the German Democratic Republic on the Eve of Its Dissolution
Ute Mohrmann

11 Culture, Lifestyle, and Everyday Life: The Museum für Volkskunde in Berlin under Socialism
Dagmar Neuland-Kitzerow

12 The Pervasive Continuities of Czech Národopis
Petr Lozoviuk

13 The Unchanging Praxis of ‘Home Anthropology’: Positivists and Marxists in the Czech Case
Josef Kandert

14 On the Periphery of a Periphery: Slovak Anthropology behind the Ideological Veil
Juraj Podoba

15 Continuity and Discontinuity in an Intellectual Tradition under Socialism: The ‘Folkloristic School’ in Bratislava
Gabriela Kiliánová

16 Historicity in Hungarian Anthropology
Klára Kuti

PART FOUR: Wider Horizons

17 Polish Expeditions Abroad, 1945–1989
Zofia Sokolewicz

18 Africanist Anthropology in the German Democratic Republic
Ulrich van der Heyden
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>CONTENTS</th>
<th>vii</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>19 An Anthropological Education: A Comparative Perspective</td>
<td>331</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bea Vidacs</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20 Comparative Notes on the Professional Personalities</td>
<td>343</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>of Two Disciplines</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tamás Hofer</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Contributors</td>
<td>363</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Index</td>
<td>365</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>