CONTENTS

About the Authors vii
Acknowledgements x
Introduction George Cusack 1

PART ONE: THE BURDEN OF WITNESS

1. The stricken land: the Great Hunger in Ireland
   Christine Kinealy 7
2. The caoineadh in Famine poetry: a communal expression of defiance
   Katherine Parr 29
3. ‘Philosophick views’?: Maria Edgeworth and the Great Famine
   Margaret Kelleher 47
4. The limits of empathy: Trollope’s Castle Richmond
   Margaret Scanlan 66
5. Dracula and the spectre of Famine
   Sarah Goss 77

PART TWO: THE POLITICS OF MEMORY

6. Feeding on gossamer, caught in the web: Famine tensions in Yeats’s The Countess Cathleen
   Jerome Joseph Day 111
7. ‘In the gripe of the ditch’: nationalism, famine and The Playboy of the Western World
   George Cusack 133
8 The Joyce of eating: feast, famine and the humble potato in Ulysses
   Bonnie Roos 159

9 ‘Buried! Who would have buried her?’: Famine ‘ghost graves’ in Samuel Beckett’s Endgame
   Julieann Ulin 197

PART THREE: THE STRUGGLE FOR CONTEXT

10 Frank O’Connor and the Irish Holocaust
   Robert C. Evans 225

11 Tom Murphy: famine and dearth
   Nicholas Grene 245

12 Irresponsible anorexia: the ethics of Eavan Boland’s Famine
   Nieves Pascual 263

13 ‘It was a life-changing book’: tracing Cecil Woodham-Smith’s impact on the canon of children’s literature of the Irish Famine
   Karen Hill McNamara 283

14 An afterword on silence
   Christopher Morash 300

Notes 309
Index 337