IMAGINING THE BOOK

Edited by

Stephen Kelly and
John J. Thompson

BREPOLS
Contents

Contributors ix
Figures xiii
Abbreviations xv
Preface xvii

STEPHEN KELLY AND JOHN J. THOMPSON

Imagined Histories of the Book: Current Paradigms and Future Directions 1

STEPHEN KELLY AND JOHN J. THOMPSON

Part One: Imagined Compilers and Editors

The Whole Book: Late Medieval English Manuscript Miscellanies and their Modern Interpreters 17

DEREK PEARSCALL

Imagining X: A Lost Early Vernacular Miscellany 31

NEIL CARTLIDGE

Imagining Book Production in Fourteenth-Century Herefordshire: The Scribe of British Library, MS Harley 2253 and his ‘Organizing Principles’ 45

JASON O’ROURKE
Contents

Imagining the Compiler: Guy of Warwick and the Compilation of the Auchinleck Manuscript
ALISON WIGGINS 61

Part Two: Imagined Patrons and Collectors

Leofric of Exeter and the Practical Politics of Book Collecting
JOYCE HILL 77

Ælfric’s Lives of Saints and Cotton Julius E.vii: Adaptation, Appropriation and the Disappearing Book
HUGH MAGENNIS 99

A Fresh Look at the Reconstructed Carmelite Missal: London, British Library, MS Additional 29704–05
VALERIE EDDEN 111

John Dygon, Fifth Recluse of Sheen: His Career, Books, and Acquaintance
RALPH HANNA 127

Part Three: Imagined Readings and Readers

Imagining a Readership for Post-Conquest Old English Manuscripts
MARY SWAN 145

Constructing Audiences for Contemplative Texts: The Example of a Mystical Anthology
BARRY WINDEATT 159

EB and his Two Books: Visual Impact and the Power of Meaningful Suggestion. ‘Reading’ the Illustrations in MSS Douce 261 and Egerton 3132A
MALDWYN MILLS 173

Part Four: Beyond the Book: Verbal and Visual Cultures

Deixis and the Untransferable Text: Anglo-Saxon Colophons, Verse-Prefaces and Inscriptions
PETER ORTON 195
Contents

A Portrait of the Reader: Secular Donors and their Books in the Art of the English Parish Church
DAVID GRIFFITH  209

Imagining Alternatives to the Book: The Transmission of Political Poetry in Late Medieval England
WENDY SCASE  237

Index of Manuscripts  251