

Media and the British Empire

Edited by

Chandrika Kaul

palgrave
macmillan

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Foreword by Sir Mark Tully	x
Notes on the Contributors	xiii
1 Introductory Survey Chandrika Kaul	1
2 'To Enlighten South Africa': The Creation of a Free Press at the Cape in the Early Nineteenth Century John M. MacKenzie	20
3 'The thinking is done in London': South Africa's English Language Press and Imperialism John Lambert	37
4 'The Old Pals' Protection Society'? The Colonial Office and the British Press on the Eve of Decolonisation Joanna Lewis and Philip Murphy	55
5 The Media and the Exile of Seretse Khama: The Bangwato vs. the British in Bechuanaland, 1948–56 Susan Williams	70
6 Ernest Jones' Mutiny: The People's Paper , English Popular Politics and the Indian Rebellion 1857–58 Tim Pratt	88
7 Writing to the Defence of Empire : Winston Churchill's Press Campaign against Constitutional Reform in India, 1929–1935 Ian St John	104

8	India, the Imperial Press Conferences and the Empire Press Union: The Diplomacy of News in the Politics of Empire, 1909–1946 Chandrika Kaul	125
9	'Business as Usual'? British Newsreel Coverage of Indian Independence and Partition, 1947–1948 Philip Woods	145
10	Purity, Obscenity and the Making of an Imperial Censorship System Deana Heath	160
11	Peripheral Politics? Antipodean Interventions in Imperial News and Cable Communication (1870–1912) Denis Cryle	174
12	A 'Sense of Common Citizenship'? Mrs Potts of Reefton, New Zealand, Communicates with the Empire Ross Harvey	190
13	'That some must suffer for the greater good': The Post Courier and the 1969 Bougainville Crisis Philip Cass	205
14	The Influence of the British Empire through the Development of Communications in Canada: French Radio Broadcasting during the Second World War Alain Canuel	219
15	Echoes of Cosmopolitanism: Colonial Penang's 'Indigenous' English Press Su Lin Lewis	233
	Select Bibliography and Further Reading	250
	Index	262